a 9-million-dollar
Market for OREGON

UNION PACIFIC employees in Oregon were paid $9,147,094 in salaries and wages during 1930. More than three thousand four hundred families, a total of 20,719 people, received their support from Union Pacific.

Think what that means to Oregon's home market—to the development of her growing industries—to the consumption of her agricultural products.

The preservation of this vast home market among Union Pacific employees is dependent upon the continuing prosperity of the Railroad. Every shipment made by truck weakens the Railroad structure and affects railroad employment.
