HOW MANY READERS?

The number of regular readers of a country weekly newspaper has always been something more or less guesswork. But recently the publisher of an Illinois weekly undertook to ascertain for his own satisfaction the number of readers per 100 copies his paper had. He planned a careful and systematic survey which was made and found that for every 100 actual subscribers there were 187 borrowers. The survey did not take into account children below high school age. It was found by the survey that in several instances as many as three families were regularly served weekly by one copy of the paper. It was found that in many instances these borrowers had a legitimate excuse for not becoming subscribers, yet they were readers.

Nevada Men Fly To Portland To Urge I-O-N Road

U. S. Senator Patrick McCarran, Sam Durkee, engineer, and R. C. Stitzer flew from Winnemucca, Nev., to Portland Saturday to urge the designation of the I-O-N through Malheur county. "The difference in mileage between the route north from Rome and through Jordan Valley would not be great," Durkee said. The road would give an outlet for producers of the Snake river valley. Winnemucca is anxious that such an outlet be provided as it now must get its produce from San Francisco.

The Nevada delegation said the McDermitt-Winnemucca road, a graveled one, would be further improved. They promised this improvement if Oregon builds the connection.

The proposal was presented to Leslie M. Scott of the highway commission and W. R. May, of the Portland Chamber of Commerce.

Wm. Gehr and D. H. Durston left Tuesday for Banks, Ida., where they have work with the Terteling company.
