

APPLE VALLEY TWINS SWALLOW GASOLINE

Apple Valley—Mrs. John Baldridge had a terrifying experience last week when her twin babies came into the house choking and crying. Observing odor of gasoline, Mrs. Baldridge realized they had drank from a can accidentally left within their reach. Mrs. Baldridge called Mrs. A. Shultz and the doctor later. The children are recovering although they were ill from the effects of the gas they had swallowed.

VANCOUVER LAWYER BUYS MINE AT UNITY

Purchase of the Bull Run mine near Unity at a price of $100,000 was announced Friday in Portland by A. G. Duncan Crux, Vancouver, B. C. attorney.

A rather substantial payment was made on the purchase price and the remainder will be paid in the form of royalties on production.

Seven mining claims and a 30-ton mill are included in the property which was purchased from O. M. Baisley and Edward Sullivan. The property is located seven miles from Unity and adjoins the Record mine. The owners and two other men are working at the Bull Run, which Baisley and Sullivan have owned for about 10 years.

Crux announced that he will spend approximately $10,000 at once to increase the mill's capacity and hopes to increase production to $400 a day.

The attorney said the purchase was financed entirely by private Vancouver capital and announced that no stock will be for sale.

FOR FAILURE PROOF BANKING STRUCTURE

Speaker Outlines Threefold Co-operation Between Bankers, Government Officials and the Public to Maintain Bank Standards

TWO elements beside the bankers themselves are required in order to give the nation universally the type of banking it should have, Francis H. Sisson, president of the American Bankers Association, declared in a recent address. He said that the efficiency of government officials upon whom the people rely to supervise the banks properly, and the patronage of the people themselves are factors in the kind of banks a community shall have. "There can be no question that the people of the United States should have banks immune from failure and wholly free from bad or questionable banking," Mr. Sisson said. "It is not enough, as President Roosevelt has said, that while some bankers had been incompetent or dishonest, this was not true in the vast majority of our banks. A situation should exist in which there is not even a small minority of bankers open to question. There should be no room for dishonesty or incompetency to exercise any influence in banking anywhere."

"While bad faith and bad management enter the human factor in all types of business, their effects in banking should be surrounded by such special safeguards as to render them no longer a factor in bank failures. The responsibility for bringing this about, however, cannot rest upon the bankers alone, for the means to accomplish it are not wholly in their hands. There are other essential elements."

"One is the efficiency of government supervision. Since we rely so greatly upon supervision, it may, unless it is of the highest order in safeguarding the public interest, create a sense of false security. Supervision should render bad banking impossible, but it has failed to do so. There was supervision by presumably the highest type of bank supervisors in every one of the instances of questionable banking that has shocked the attention of the country during the past three years. Therefore a thorough strengthening of supervision is clearly called for if the people are to rely on it to the fullest extent for the protection of their interests."

The Public's Part
"Another essential factor in maintaining good banks involves the part played by the public in banking. There is certainly a responsibility on the people themselves to support that type of banker whose rigid adherence to sound principles makes a sound bank, rather than to give their patronage to the easy going banker who may be easier to do business with, but whose methods create a weak bank."

"Bank customers are charged with a great responsibility in protecting the safety of their banks in respect to their utilization of the assets of the banks as borrowers. Banks have failed because many of their loans and securities, created in good faith by bankers in co-operation with the business interests of the country, proved unsound under subsequent conditions. An unsound loan is created by the borrower as well as the banker. A bank is only as sound as its community, and this applies also to the banking structure as a whole in relation to the economic condition of the nation as a whole."

"A bank is truly a semi-public institution, but in a reciprocal sense—it has its obligations to the public, but so has the public equal obligations to the bank. No one who has not sound banking principles at heart has any business in a bank whether as a banker or as a customer."
