BACK TO SCHOOL

The old school bell summoned the youngsters back to school this week for nine long months of reading, writing and arithmetic. Sonny may not welcome the somewhat stuffy school room and he may regret the passing of summer, with its lazy, care-free days, but older folks look back on school with happy memories. To them school days were very happy days.

There was the pretty girl across the aisle. There was time for visiting with pals. There was the lesson to get with the reward of high marks if one did well. The pep rally, the first football game, the play, the party—a dozen and one activities which make the school year anything but all study.

Even for the small boy, school is more than washing the ears well. There is teacher's smile when she is pleased—with a good lesson or a big red apple.

These are somewhat trying times for those who carry the heavier burdens in the schools. Because taxes are not all paid, school money in the county treasury will scarcely cover the expense of early months of the term but teachers carry on. Wages have been reduced and living is a little higher but they will not cut down in service to the boys and girls who are learning to be good citizens.

PLANS FOR STATE RELIEF

Any onlooker at the meeting must have concluded that the governor's committee of 26 on state emergency relief had no thought of returning to the sales tax. Several members of the committee publicly said use of the sales tax for any purpose in Oregon would be impossible.

A fair appraisal of the committee's views would seem to be that not merely one but several means of raising funds would be advisable. Speaker snell's proposed beer tax was favorably received.

There was a like reaction to the grant plan as submitted by State Grange Master Ray Gill. It contemplates no collection of new taxes.

In the minds of numerous members of the committee were a luxury tax, a tobacco tax, an occupation tax and an income tax to retire all tax on real property.

And some members publicly expressed the view that relief should be administered, not by the state, but by the counties, particularly by the county courts. Under the law, county courts are the recognized body for such purposes. They direct the poor farms and other public relief in all normal times. They are in close touch with the situation. They are the final directing body. They are in far better position to be practical and effective than are men far removed from the scene. Above all, relief so administered, by officials on the ground and responsible for their acts, is very certain to be relief without leas or extravagances or waste. No body every heard of scandal or charges coming out of relief administered by county courts. But such things are much heard of relative to unofficially administered charities.—Oregon Journal.

PULLING POWER

One of the things the depression years seem to have taught American business men is that the newspaper advertisement is the surest and most effective and inexpensive means of reaching the consuming public.

Figures just made public by the bureau of advertising of the American Newspaper Publishers' association show that newspapers received 59 per cent of the total advertising appropriations of 432 national advertisers in 1932 and constituted the preferred advertising medium of 19 of the principal trade groups in the United States.

Newspaper, for example, got 82 per cent of the automobile advertisements, 74 per cent of the gasoline ads., 92 per cent of the railroads' and 87 per cent of the shoe and clothing advertisements.

The figures are a remarkable tribute to the "pulling power" of the newspaper advertisement.

BY CLARK WOOD

The Louisiana Kingfish, it appears, is far from handy with his fins.

Nudists, we fear, are apt to suffer embarrassment from the NRA. There's nothing they care to recover.

Hoboes of America adopted a code, but it may have been merely an "empty" gesture.

We anticipate failure of this country's renewed attempt to get Sam In-sull out of Geece. He ought to be sicked now than ever.

If fasting palls on Mr. Gandhi he could move to Russia and, by eating, still hold the public eye.

Because he said he could not afford to drive his automobile at the present high prices of gasoline in Washington, Governor Martin hitch-hiked from Olympia to Wenatchee Saturday. For some time he has been fighting high gas prices in Washington.

Assurance that education will participate in the three billion dollar federal works fund was brought from Washington Monday by M. D. Showalter, school official of Olympia. He met with Secretary Ickes who gave educational aid his approval.

REMINISCING
(Written for Mrs. Will Beam for Malheur pioneer picnic.)
'Twas just the other evening,
When I laid me down to rest,
My thoughts went back to days long past,
Those days I love the best.

The old school bell was ringing,
And, the lessons we always had,
'Cause it was hard to bluff the teacher
When he happened to be your Dad.

We walked past the old stable,
And spoke to Arthur Glenn
Who was pitching hay and talking stock
To a group of other men.

With a cracking whip and rattle of wheels,
The stage coach sailed into town.
Bob Goslen, in the driver's seat
Sure did it all "up brown."

Bill Glenn was there to meet him,
And greeted him with a cheer.
Then they wandered down to Pappy Wells
For a little glass of beer.

The Hess Hotel was a grand old place,
But it sure was hot in summers.
The townfolk gathered around its steps
To listen to the drummers.

Two men came walking down the street,
Dressed in their Sunday best.
The gent with the star was Henry Murray,
The other was Ed. H. Test.

There went Lawyer O. F. Buse
With a law book under his arm,
He was thinking of a client
Who must not come to harm.

Here was Hope's general store,
Where all the men folks came
To argue and talk each evening
Of when the railroad came.

Ben Richardson, the county judge
Always seemed so jo'ly
He was fat and square with everyone
No matter what their folly.

Well, time goes on and they leave us,
Those Malheur pioneers,
Let's give them what they deserve so much,
Three loud and rousing cheers.

—Noel Plugoff, Pendleton, nephew of Mrs. Beam.

Mrs. Albert Hirsch is able to be up and around after an extended illness. She is recovering from a major operation which was performed at the Ontario hospital.
