KAMPKOOK

is moving into the kitchen

Various models; two- and three-burner. The only stove of its kind having removable fuel reservoir (a patented feature).

FOR years Kampkook has been the most widely used touring, camping and picnicking stove in the country. Today it is becoming just as popular as a cooking appliance for the kitchen. It's so handy. So compact. So economical. And the amount of heat it produces for cooking or baking is amazing.

Kampkook makes its own gas—from gasoline which is one of today's cheapest fuels. It is easy to operate; lights instantly—no generating required; produces a clear-blue, smokeless and practically odorless flame; and is as safe as any wood, coal or city-gas stove. (Approved by Underwriters' Laboratories.)

A suggestion: Use a Kampkook in place of your regular kitchen range this summer and save a lot of fuel money. You'll be surprised how little a Kampkook costs.

FISH, SNOW ARE THRILLS AT LAKE

When Dr. C. A. Abbott returned Thursday from Strawberry lake, he brought a catch of Eastern Brook and Rainbow trout which were the finest seen in town this season. Fifteen of them weighed around two pounds each. In addition to good fishing, the Abbotts enjoyed a June snowstorm at the lake last Tuesday. On return home they brought Mrs. Arvilla Fauchier and Mrs. Josie Douglas after a month's sojourn at Blue Mt. Springs.
