ONTARIO ENTERTAINS

REBEKAHS, I. O. O. F.

(By Mrs. Tom Johnson)

The annual convention of Rebekah Lodge of District 25 met in Ontario on October 10, with Grace Christensen, president of the Rebekah and Chas. Poole, grand master of the OddFellows lodge of Oregon, in attendance.

The following officers served: chairman, Edna King; vice chairman, Mary Pierson; secretary-treasurer, Lucile Prahl; warden, Harriet Sears; conductor, Dairy Johnson; inside guardian, Angie Cook; outside guardian, Lizzie Carey; right supporter to chairman, Effie Davis; right supporter to vice chairman, Mary Felton; left supporter to vice chairman, Mrs. Pinkerton; chaplain, Verena Beam.

Three charter members of the Ontario and Nyssa Rebekah Lodges were introduced and presented with lovely bouquets. They were Mesdames Pogue, Clement and Duncan. Each lodge exemplified some phase of the work during the afternoon, dancing girls and violin pupils of Chas. Wilson entertained.

Next year's convention will meet at Nyssa. The following officers for 1935 were elected: chairman, Betty Forbes; vice chairman, Emma Eldridge; secretary-treasurer, Merle Johnson.

The Ontario Lodge served a banquet at 6:30.

Degree work was beautifully put on by Ontario Rebekahs. The committees on Thanks resolution and memorial all made their reports. Visitors from Jordan Valley as well as from Idaho lodges attended.

The collar awarded for the largest percent of attendance was presented to the Yellow Rose Rebekah lodge of Nyssa. The prize awarded in the Deputy President contest went to Gertrude Blanton of Beatrice Rebekah lodge of Ontario.

EMPTY SOCKETS any place in the house cause inconvenience. Empty sockets in the basement attic or on stairways may cause danger. Empty sockets anywhere often result in eye strain.

Check up the lighting in your home. See how many sockets there are that need new lamps. Put a lamp in every socket. Make your home bright and cheerful with good light.

Keep a supply of lamps on hand. Then when a lamp is broken or burned out you will have a new one to take its place.

Take advantage of this opportunity to Save Ten Per Cent by buying Lamps in Cartons of Six.

How Is THE LIGHTING In Your Home ?

Like Seeing With Smoked Glasses

SCIENCE now tells us that constant reading or working in inadequate light is one of the surest ways to damage eyes. The reason many children become nearsighted is that they study in poor light. And not one modern home in ten provides effortless seeing without eyestrain.

Watch your family as they read. Does a child of yours hold his books noticeably closer than 14 inches? If so, chances are that his eyes are being strained. He needs better home lighting and he may need eye-glasses.

Check your home now!

Follow These Simple Lighting Rules

1. Fill all the empty sockets with lamp bulbs of correct wattage and keep a supply of "extras" on hand.
2. Never read in glare or in your own shadow. Have all lamp globes shaded. For portables, a shade which is light in color, wide in spread, and open at the top.
3. See if you have sufficient floor and table lamps for proper illumination, and if they are properly placed.
4. Make an inspection of your lighting fixtures and bring them up-to-date. This means eye comfort now—eyesight protection later.
5. Make certain that the paint and wall paper in your rooms are in colors that reflect light—not ones that absorb the light.
6. Have the eyes of every member of your family examined by a competent Eye Specialist at regular intervals.
