AROUND SCHOOL

Bob Jackson got home Saturday morning in time to build the fires . . . Bob Leuck's hair has grown long enough so he can comb it now . . . Falrney couldn't help it because he wasn't at the box social—the roads were just too slick . . . Lloyd Wilson when reciting in class forgets to take his hand down, after the question has been answered . . . Paul Cox gave a report in Civics on "Scareface Al Capone" and "Machine Gun Kellys" exclusive home. They are now where no one can hurt them . . . The CCC boys printed their paper on the High School lettergraph Monday . . . Student body members showed very poor spirit by not attending the box social Friday night.

RESULTS COMPILED ON FIRE PREVENTION

In compiling the results of the educational campaign waged during Fire Prevention week last fall; a report by the State Fire Marshall department shows that reports were received from 50 towns, representing 54,776 of the home fire hazard phamphlets which were used. These reports show that 51,125 fire hazards were eliminated.

The campaign was the most successful state-wide Fire Prevention campaign ever conducted in Oregon, the Fire Marshall says. The campaign was made possible in Nyssa by the co-operation of local school authorities and the fire department.
