

Most Loans By FHA Are Repaid

Oregon financial institutions which are cooperating with FHA in the modernization program, are enthusiastic over the way their character loans are paying out, according to Jamieson Parker, state FHA director.

Persons who have availed themselves of the facilities made available by the modernization credit plan are making their monthly payments with a promptness that is highly gratifying to lending institutions and to FHA, the director stated. There have been some delinquencies but the number has held to a surprisingly low percentage considering the large volume of operations in Oregon. The number of actual defaults is almost negligible.

"Borrowers appreciate the convenience of the plan which enables them to make needed repairs to their home, to improve their living conditions by modernization and the purchase of appliances and equipment so necessary to every home," it was explained by Parker. "They welcome the opportunity to participate in a program for improvement of general conditions as does the modernization credit plan, and they are showing their good faith by making their payments promptly."

"For the enlightenment of those who have not yet participated in the modernization credit plan and who need assistance in improving their homes it should be explained here that any responsible person having a regular income from which to make the required monthly payments, may obtain loans from banks or other approved lending institutions. For home betterments the amount borrowed may not exceed $2000 but loans up to $50,000 are available for the improvement of income properties or the purchase and installation of eligible equipment and machinery."

Compact and Economical

Plenty of room for the average family, no waste space and economical construction make this house a popular choice with home builders. Simple Colonial lines and a "cottage" appearance are effectively combined with a roomy interior plan.

The front door opens into a small vestibule, a feature that gives extra privacy and greater comfort. A large coat closet, handy to both front entrance and living room, is located here.

A cased opening leads into the living room, where an open fireplace and large windows assure a cheerful year around interior. An open stairway opposite the vestibule entrance leads to the second floor, a door leads into the first floor bedroom, and a wide opening gives access to the dining area at the rear of the house. The living room, like other rooms in the house, has been planned to give adequate wall space for furniture and at the same time retain spacious feeling unusual in a small house.

The kitchen, compact and conveniently planned, is equipped with built-in cases and work tables at each side of the sink, and space is provided for range and refrigerator. A door leads to the basement from this room, and a second door opens onto the rear porch.

A bedroom and adjoining bath on the first floor is a convenience much appreciated in many families. Where older people, children or invalids must be considered such a room becomes almost a necessity. In a plan of this type, the inclusion of a first floor bedroom and bath makes a complete one-story home, and the second floor can then be finished at some later time.

Hall space on the second floor is reduced to minimum to make all of the space usable. Two good size bedrooms and a second bath, with two closets and a large attic storage space complete the house.

CELEBRATE ANNIVERSARY

The Relief Society of the L. D. S. church commemorated the anniversary of the Society Wednesday night with a party at the church. A good sized crowd was present and every one reported a fine time. The evening was spent with a program, dancing refreshments, carrying out St. Patrick's motif served at the close. The program was given at various times through out the evening and consisted of a solo by Malcolm Crawford, accompanied by Mrs. W. C. Jackson, group singing, talks by Mrs. Geo. Haycock, Bishop Fife and D. L. Anderson on the Relief Society work. Mr. and Mrs. Angus Bishop sang a number with Mr. Bishop accompanying them on the guitar. D. L. Anderson sang a solo accompanied by his wife. The committee arranging for the party was made up of Mesdames N. A. Nye, D. L. Anderson, Charles McConnell, F. L. Kirkham and Mrs. Haycock.

According to recent newspaper articles reports originating in Vale, fish in large numbers are going through the "glory" hole at the Owyhee dam. Taking into consideration the fact that the water is still some distance below the Glory hole, there has been considerable local speculation as to the nature of these flying fish which fly into the air and tumble through the spillway at the dam.

Of course there are fish which can travel through the air for short distances, but it was generally supposed that these fish were inhabitants of salt water and no one dreamed that the Owyhee reservoir boasted of flying fish. It must be quite an experience for a fish to jump several feet into the air and instead of landing in the friendly waters of the Owyhee reservoir to find they have jumped into the spillway. A motion picture of the thoughts of a fish as he tumbles 200 feet to his doom, would be interesting.

As a matter of record the Bureau of Reclamation have been releasing water through the needle valve, located 75 to 100 feet below the surface of the present water level, in anticipation of a heavy spring run-off. Water will likely flow through the ring gate spillway, known as the "glory hole," sometime within the next few weeks, and at that time there may be a few fish lost if they venture too close to the suction created by the spillway. If feasible from an engineering standpoint, it would be a good idea to erect some protection there for fish and boats, as it is possible that the unprotected spillway might be the scene of a tragedy some day.

French Mourn Giant Cedar

The lovers in all parts of France are mourning the loss of her famous giant cedar, Bernard de Jes sieu, the French botanist, took it back from Lebanon in his hut. He gave it to the finance minister of Louis the Fifteenth, and M. Trudaine planted it in his park at Montigny-Lencoup, near Provins. There since the middle of the Eighteenth century it remained, waxing in girth and stature till it became, at the age of 180 or thereabouts, the biggest tree in France. At its prime it stood 105 feet high, was 35 feet in circumference, and its branches shaded a thousand square yards.
