JUNIOR PROM—

One of the most successful and beautiful school functions of the year was the Junior Prom held last Friday evening in the gym.

The coronation of Queen Ellen I and King Jack I took place at the beginning of the evening and was followed by the grand march led by the royal party. The gym was transformed into a Southern garden, with colored lights, and lanterns hung above the dance floor.

A good crowd enjoyed the dance and also the program which was presented during the evening. Mrs. Haworth and the Juniors had charge of the affair.

PRESENT PROGRAM—

The Freshmen had charge of the student body program for last Tuesday and presented a variety of numbers for the entertainment of students and faculty. Mrs. C. L. McCoy sang two vocal numbers as did little Richard Wilson. The program was dedicated to the Senior Class.

FINAL EXAM NEXT WEEK—

Final examinations are scheduled for next week, each course being allowed a half day for the completion of its test. Exemptions will be awarded to pupils who meet the grade average requirement.

Due to the fact that athletic practices have been terminated for the year, school is being dismissed at three o'clock for the last week of classes.

Biology classes are hard pressed to get in the required collections of plants and bugs for their laboratory credits.

Sympathy of the student body is extended to the Pond family whose home was destroyed by fire while they were attending a picnic at the Dam last Sunday. At a meeting of freshman and junior girls Monday afternoon it was decided that all possible assistance would be offered the Pond girls in making adjustments necessary by their loss.

In a game of softball last Monday the Junior girls triumphed over the Freshman fcs in a heatedly contested battle.

Holly, Robertson and Enos report a very enjoyable time last Sunday while attending the show in Nampa.

Sally Fyllingsnes was a visitor at school Tuesday.

The new officers for the coming school year were installed at Tuesday's meeting.

WE WONDER—

What happened to cause the sudden change on Thompson's bus?

Why some Seniors are still hard at it—could it be bookkeeping?

Why some Sophomores (and others) are doing extra assignments?

How Peggy likes her new boy friend?

Prices Rise for Oregon Fruits

Oregon fruits, particularly pears and apples, are tending to establish seasonal high prices these days on northern auction markets. Typical of the scenes enacted daily are buyers (above) inspecting fruit on display floor prior to sale, and an auctioneer (right) receiving competitive bids.

The fruit and vegetable auction market system, observing this year its 110th anniversary, returns more than $130,000,000 annually to growers, and supplies 40,000,000 consumers. Auction markets are situated in Baltimore, Boston, Chicago, Cincinnati, Cleveland, Detroit, New York, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, and St. Louis.
