LIGHTED CIGARETTE— $70,000 GONE-

A SHORT time ago, a careless Oregon motorist tossed a lighted cigarette from his car. An area of 5,000 acres, covered with young timber, was burned. At the present average lumber price, that means that $70,000 in payrolls and supplies was lost to the state. And, according to a conservation authority, "it would really amount to a loss of well over a million dollars in the future resources of the state." Many decades are required before a burned tree is replaced and devastated land becomes valuable again. Preventing fire is said to be 75 per cent of reforestation. And more than 90 per cent of all forest fires are man-made. In every lumber state, you can see thousands of ghostly acres, covered with only the blackened stumps of once great trees-grim monuments to ignorance and carelessness.

Every individual owes his fellow citizens an obligation when he goes into the woods, or drives through timbered country. That obligation is easily discharged-but failure to do so may result in the loss of millions of dollars, and the ruin of irreplacable natural beauties. Take the utmost care with smoking materials-and don't throw matches and butts, even though you think they're out, from your car. Watch campfires like a hawk, and when you leave, saturate them with water, then bury with dirt. Obey the law-especially the local ruling that are put into effect during fire season in areas where hazards are especially great.

Remember that forests are our heritage, and that it is up to us whether we dissipate or conserve that magnificent legacy.

The Johnstown flood will never be forgotten -the world was aghast when the death total of 2,209 was tabulated.

The World War was the most sanguinary conflict in history. In it, 50,000 Americans lost their lives, and they are still mourned.

The recent Texas school explosion, which killed 294 children, brought universal sympathy and horror.

Yet last year 111,000 Americans met accidental death-more than twice as many as were killed in the great war-and it caused hardly a ripple in the flow of news. We read of some of these accidents in our paper—"John Jones, aged 45, died in emergency hospital after being struck by an automobile"—turned the page, and forgot them. This astounding callousnessthis attitude of "Accidents always happen to the other fellow, not to me or mine"—is death's greatest ally.

Among men, heart disease is the only thing which kills more men than accidents. Such plagues as cancer, tuberculosis, pneumoniaplagues which are being fought by all the resource of science- are down the list. Recklessly driven automobiles, burns, falls, drownings, and so on-these are the great killers.

Practically every accident is preventableand this is especially true of the motor car,, greatest of all the great killers. Care, competence, courtesy-these make up the accident prevention triumvirate. It's up to you-to all of us.

$100 FOR A NAME

The Sunday Oregonian wants a short, expressive title for this new section to replace the temporary title, "This Week's News Pictures," and will pay $100 for the best title submitted. Each entrant must submit only one suggested title, and a state-ment of 50 words or less giving reasons why its writer believes the title is good.

Entries will be judged first upon the expressiveness and suitability of the name, and second, upon the logic of the statement supporting it. Elaborate and expensive art work will not be considered. Entries will be judged by members of The Oregonian news staff, and their award will be final.

All entries must be sent by mail, addressed to the Sunday Editor, The Oregonian, Portland, Oregon. Contest closes at midnight Saturday, September 11, 1937.
