THE BOY AND THE GUN

It is in every boys heart to own a gun. The bigger the better. And to know how to use a gun intelligently at all times should be the aim of every one. But all too often a gun is placed in a youths hand without proper instruction as to its use and the responsibility that its possession carries, to at all times consider the life and property of others and to never forget nor neglect the proper precautions to this end at all times.

This past week there has been flagrant misuse of these privileges promiscuously over the land at the in Nyssa. Men or boys are shooting north edge of town where stock frequently feed, pet dogs run, people walk and children play. It is well to remember at all times that another's life may be sacrificed through carelessness and negligence.
