New State Library

Miss Harriett Long, state librarian, shared honors with Governor Martin in the ceremony which marked the turning of the first spadeful of earth on the site to be occupied by the new state library building this week. The ceremony was attended by a number of high state officials, supreme court justices and members of the Capitol Reconstruction commission. The contractors have lost no time in getting on the job and already work is under way on the new $700,000 structure which will house not only the state library but a number of department of education, department of vocational education and the World War Veterans State aid commission.

Malheur Gets Grazing Money

Seventeen Oregon counties participated in the distribution this week of $25,587.94 representing Oregon's share of rentals received for grazing lands under the Taylor Grazing act. Largest amount went to Malheur county whose share amounting to $11,248.05 represented nearly 50 per cent of the total. Other counties participating in the distribution and the amount each received included Baker $1987.31; Deschutes, $648.10; Gilliam, $90.88; Morrow, $3.28; Sherman, $122.68; Wasco $53.48.

Xmas Trees

Commercial jobbers cut a total of 168,555 Christmas trees from Oregon forests during the recent holiday season according to a survey by the state forestry department. The trees would cover an area of 314 acres on the basis of a 9 by 9 planting which is regarded as quite dense for well formed trees. The figure does not include trees cut by individuals for their own use.

Hard Life for "Public Servants"

It cost the taxpayers of Oregon more than $53,000 a month to pay the hotel bills and transportation costs of the state's small army of traveling officials and employees. A survey just completed by Budget Director Wharton reveals that the biggest share of this cost, averaging $36,467 a month, is paid out for transportation. Operation of state owned cars alone accounts for an expenditure of $22,812 a month while the use of privately owned automobiles on state business costs another $10,833 a month. The railroads get very little passenger business out of the state, train and bus fares combined amounting to only $2,819 a month. Meals for state officials and employees while away from home cost an average of $8,931 a month while lodgings account for another $7,620 a month. Wharton's survey shows that the state is now operating 562 of its own cars at an average cost of only $2.58 cents a mile. Use of privately owned cars costs the state an average of 3.8 cents a mile.

Gasoline Sales Up

The mild winter weather enjoyed by Oregon this year is reflected in an increase of approximately 20 per cent in gasoline sales during January as compared with sales for the same month last year. Reports to Secretary of State Snell account for the sale of 13,992,733 gallons of gasoline during January on which the state tax amounted to $699,636.66.

Another "Peoples Utility District"

Residents of Cascade Locks have petitioned the Oregon Hydro-Electric commission for the organization of a peoples' utility district to include not only the town of Cascade Locks but a strip of territory approximately ten miles long bordering on the Columbia river.

Watchful Waiting

Oregon electric utilities are awaiting clarification of the Bonneville situation before planning any increase in their generating equipment. N. G. Wallace, Budgets filed with the utilities commission by electric utilities make no provision for additional generating units during 1938.

Editors note: Traffic questions submitted to this newspaper will be answered by the Secretary of State or through this column.

WHAT MUST I DO IF I AM INVOLVED IN AN ACCIDENT?

Your first duty is to stop immediately at the scene of the accident. You should give your name, address, driver's license number and car license number to the drivers of any other vehicles involved, and request them to give you the same information. You should also give them the name and address of the owner of the car you are driving, if it belongs to someone else, and you should give them the names and addresses of any other occupants of your car.

You must, of course, render any necessary assistance to injured persons, including giving them transportation to medical attention if needed or if requested by them. You will have to exercise good judgment here, because persons with broken bones or other serious injury normally should be transported only in an ambulance or carried prone in the bed of a truck. In many cases it is safer and quicker to bring the doctor to the patient than vice versa.

WHAT ACCIDENTS SHOULD I REPORT?

If you are unfortunate enough to be involved in an accident which causes property damage, personal injury or death you must report the accident within 24 hours to the county sheriff or to the chief of police if the accident occurs within the limits of a city. In making out your report be sure to fill in all the blanks, since the report will have little value in helping prevent similar accidents if it is incomplete.
