STOCK AND GRAIN MARKETS

(Editor's Note: The following market information is supplied from material obtained over the Government leased market wire in the office of the extension economist at Oregon State college. The material is in the form of a weekly summary of trends in the livestock market and is not intended to replace spot day by day market reports.)

Cattle Markets

North Portland received about 2400 head of cattle last Monday which was approximately the same number received a week earlier. In contrast to the steady gains shown in the cattle market in recent weeks, trading early this week was slow with prices generally 25 cents to 50 cents lower than closing quotations list week. Top price paid for a few best loads of grass steers was $8.25.

At San Francisco most of the offerings were grass steers, the best of which brought $8.35. Medium to good beef cows brought $5.15 to $6.00.

This is the time of year when cattle prices at North Portland ordinarily are tending downward, but until this week the trend so far in July has been upward. Prices early last week in Portland were only 60 cents below last year's level on the corresponding date. In Chicago the prices last week were about $4.50 under the quotations of a year ago.

The dry weather of the past week has caused the ranges and pastures in the lower areas in Oregon and Washington to become very dry, but summer ranges in the mountains are still recorded to be in excellent condition.

Sheep and Lamb Markets
About 1200 head of sheep and lambs were received at North Portland last Monday, about 200 head more than the week previous. Although trading was rather slow, prices remained steady to 25 cents higher than last Friday and 50 cents higher than a week earlier. Good trucked-in spring lambs brought mostly $6.50 with carload lots up to $6.75.

Contracting in central and southern Oregon was reported during the last week with several strings of black faces sold on a basis of $6.75 straight, while white face lambs brought $6.00 to $6.50 per hundred.

Buying in California has extended to the high Sierras and Lassen and Modoc counties. In the latter area, bay district buyers have bought fat lambs at $6.50 to $6.75 f.o.b. loading points. In western Montana several bids at around $6.50 for black face lambs and mixed white faces and black faces have been reported.

Very little feeder lamb contracting occurred during the past week as both growers and operators preferred to await further developments. Meanwhile sheep and lambs on mountain summer ranges are reported making satisfactory gains, while local rains have improved many plains range areas.

Hog Markets
Hog receipts at North Portland last Monday were approximately 2100 head compared with 1400 a week earlier. Although trading was slow, prices were up 15 cents compared with last Friday, although top prices of carload lots at $10.25 was 50 cents under the top price of the previous Monday when the highest prices since early last October were paid. This price was still nearly $2.00 under that of the comparable date in 1937.

Farmers cash income from sale of hogs, pork and lard in 1937 was 6 per cent less than in 1936 but more than double the amount received in 1932, and about one-third larger than the annual pre-war average, a report just issued by the bureau of agricultural economics reveals. Income from hogs varied greatly between 1909 and 1937 with the highest fourth of the peak income. Since 1920 the changes in income from hogs have followed fairly closely the changes in industrial pay rolls. The foreign demand for hog products was also a item of importance. Since 1930 exports have declined sharply.

Wool Markets
A fairly large volume of business was transacted on the Boston wool market last week at prices firm to higher than the previous week.

The demand for graded territory wool was somewhat broader, although the bulk of the trading was in original bags or ungraded offering. Good French combing length, fine, territory wool in original bags was in good demand at 63 cents to 64 cents, scoured basis, while a few sales were at 65 cents.
