NO NEW TAX LAWS IS AIM OF INTERIM COMMISSION

SALEM—A promise that new tax laws would be recommended "only as a last resort," was contained in a statement issued by Interim Commission on State and Local Revenue at the conclusion of a two day session here Saturday.

The statement also advised against approval of the transactions tax bill at the November election as constituting "precipitate and premature action" which would "render the work of the Interim Commission largely a wasted effort."

"The problems involved in financing a sound and adequate program of old-age assistance in Oregon and of apportioning the costs fairly between the state and the counties are not easy of solution," the commission declared, adding that if permitted to continue its work in an orderly manner it was confident of being able to submit a comprehensive and sound plan for the consideration of the legislature.

McGee also asked for a share of liquor revenues for the cities to compensate them for the increased cost of police protection brought on by the return of legalized liquor from the sale of which only the state now realizes any profit. Other city officials also supported McGee's views.

All of the city and county representatives opposed any additional levies declaring that any such course would only lead to a tax revolt.
