MONUMENT ABOUT READY

The old pioneer who perches atop the capitol building is expected to emerge from his hiding within the next few days, all resplendent in a new suit of gold leaf. The statue has been enclosed in a canvas screen for the past two weeks while workmen were engaged in applying the gold.

INVITATION TO KING AND QUEEN

One of the most elaborately decorated documents ever to go forth from Salem went out this week in the form of invitation to the King and Queen of Great Britain to visit this state upon the occasion of their tour of Canada next summer. The invitation bore not only the great seal of the state of Oregon, but the seals of the city of Portland and the Portland chamber of commerce and the signatures of Governor Martin, Mayor Joseph K. Carson and Leslie M. Scott, president of the Portland chamber.

CAPITOL STREETS OPENED

Both Court street and Summer street in front of the new capitol are now open to traffic after being closed for several weeks while under going reconstruction.

PRISON INSPECTION

The state prison underwent its annual inspection at the hands of the Marion county grand jury this week. No report has yet been made on the jury's findings at the institution.

ONE OUT OF FOUR GET PENSIONS

Fourteen million dollars will be required to finance old age pensions in Oregon during the next biennium according to Elmer Goudy, state relief administrator. At that only one aged person out of every four in the state will be on the pension roll. The other three-fourths of the state's population over 65 years of age are either self-supporting or have relatives who are able and willing to care for them.

MARTIN WARNS ON CAMPAIGN FUNDS

Governor Martin has again found it necessary to warn campaign managers against soliciting state employees for contributions. Requests for funds, the governor charged, have been accompanied by threats in case of non-compliance.

FEW CHANGES IN TAX RATIO

Release of the tax ratios by the State Tax Commission reveals but few changes in the rate of assessment in the several counties over the ratios of last year. Coos, Jackson and Morrow counties are shown to have increased slightly their ratio of assessments to true cash values while five other counties—Curry, Lincoln, Sherman, Wallowa and Wheeler—showed slightly reduced ratios.

CAPITAL HEATING PLANT START

Construction work has already been started on the new central heating plant which will serve all of the state buildings in the capitol group. The plant, to be located approximately three blocks east and south of the present heating plant, will cost $101,250 in addition to the $10,500 paid for the site.

MILITARY DEPARTMENT GETS 'FIXIN'S'

Major General George A. White, adjutant general in charge of Oregon's military department, now boasts one of the most elaborately furnished private offices in the capitol reconstruction commission. The long table formerly used by the board of control now does duty in the office of Chas. P. Pray, head of the state police bureau.

VOTERS PAMPHLETS

Four carloads of paper went into printing of the 525,000 official pamphlets which have been sent out to the voters of Oregon the past few weeks. The pamphlets were unusually large this year, some of them containing 100 pages while the smaller ones contained 76 pages.

SCHOOL DISTRICTS NOT LIABLE

School districts are not liable in damages for injuries sustained by a pupil who is being transported to or from school in a bus operated by the district, according to a ruling by Attorney General I. H. Van Winkle.

FUN'N FACTS
By ED. PRUYN

Howdy Folks: We seem to have started a wave of Scotch jokes in last week's column. A fan sent in several, the prize winner being about the Scotchman who took his girl for a taxi ride and she was so beautiful he could hardly keep his eyes on the meter.

Maybe there are some who never heard about the Scot who found his wife with another man and said, "Stand behind your lover, you false woman, I'm going to shoot you both."

So to end all Scotch jokes we'll just mention that we saw a real Scot on the street the other day. He could prove he was Scotch because he was full of it.
