NEARLY 100 BILLS AWAIT GUBERNATORIAL ACTION

SALEM—Returning to his office Monday after a four-day invasion of southern Oregon Governor Sprague plunged into the task of clearing his desk of legislative enactments of which nearly 100 were still awaiting his attention. The benefits of the longer period granted the governor for consideration of bills following adjournment of the legislative session has already been felt, in the absence of the chaos and confusion, which heretofore reigned in the executive department immediately following the departure of the lawmakers as the governor labored frantically to dispose of the bill left in his lap.

NO HOUSE-CLEANING, BUT—

Following disposal of the legislative leavings the governor is expected to devote himself to reorganization of his official family already well started through the appointment of two new members of the unemployment compensation commission and one new appointment on the state highway commission. While Governor Sprague has said that he plans no wholesale house-cleaning of appointive officials and employees he can not entirely ignore the clamor of his supporters for a share of the spoils, and Democratic hold-overs in lucrative jobs are nervously awaiting the official axe-wielding.

DEMOCRAT'S VICTIM MAY BE RE-INSTATED

There is a well defined feeling in state house circles that John Carlin, recently deposed as a member of the tax commission is to be taken care of either through re-instatement on that commission or in some other lucrative state post. Republican leaders are known to resent the eleventh-hour coup by which Carlin was displaced by Wallace S. Wharton, a democrat and executive secretary to Governor Martin. Secretary of State Snell who was not taken into the confidence of Martin and State Treasurer Holman when they plotted Carlin's removal is said to be ready to go along with Governor Sprague in restoring Carlin to his old job if the governor elects to take that course. Many believe, however, that Wallace will be allowed to remain on the commission and that Cras V. Galloway, the other Democratic member will be sacrificed to make place for Carlin.

There have also been rumors to the effect that Earl Fisher, veteran member of the tax commission, might be replaced. These rumors, however, have become perennial. They bob up at the outset of every new administration and it is known that Fisher has been called on to defend himself against charges brought by "friends of the administration" in the high income tax brackets who have unsuccessfully sought special favors at the hands of the tax commissioner.

A HUNDRED APPLICANTS FOR ONE JOB

More than 100 applications are said to have been filed for the post of parole officer under the revamped parole set-up. Ed. Duffy, present parole officer, is known to be desirous of remaining on the job. Dr. Floyd L. Utter, member of the non-salaried parole board, is ambitious to take over the more lucrative post of parole officer. But both of these aspirants labor under the handicap of Democratic political affiliation. The job which carries with it a salary of $4000 a year is expected to go to some "deserving" Republican.

WASHINGTON'S "GIN MARRIAGE" LAW

The action of Governor Clarence D. Martin in signing Washington's "gin marriage" law places that state on a parity with Oregon with respect to its attempt to check hasty marriages according to Governor Sprague who expressed gratification that Oregon's northern neighbor had taken this step. California has a similar law Governor Sprague said.

NO TRIPS FROM SCHOOL FUND

Attorney General Van Winkle has ruled that school boards have no authority to conduct educational or recreational tours financed out of school funds.

FAIR WILL BRING OREGON TOURISTS

The San Francisco fair will bring the largest crop of tourists to Oregon in the history of the state in the opinion of Harold Say, head of the state highway department's travel information bureau. The bureau has already had inquiries from 26,000 persons seeking information relative to recreational facilities and points of interest in the state.

The Versal Session family of Council, Idaho have moved to the T. M. Lowe ranch where they have leased part of the ranch. Among the stock they brought with them are 11 head of horses which have the distinction of having been rounded up by airplane. Many of the horses are hurt as they became so frightened when rounded up in this manner and of course have to be shot.
