Louis Pratt moved to Cow Valley Tuesday.

At a school board meeting Thursday evening Mr. and Mrs. Walter McPartland and Miss Eulah Bratton were re-hired to teach next year and Mrs. Mildred Hite was chosen to teach the primary room in place of Miss Betty Nelson who plans to go to school.

The Ted Rogers family were in Ontario Saturday.

Mr. Haycock and Mr. Schlopko of the reclamation service met Tuesday with Mesdames, Hill, Anderson, Borge and Judd of the Modern Pioneer club to go over a proposed park location.

Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Goulet and family of Nyssa spent Saturday evening with the Lester Goulets.

Jess Sugg bought a team of horses last week and he was in Caldwell Saturday.

Mrs. Maurice Judd is substituting for Mrs. McPartland this week as she has the mumps.

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Asborn of Ontario have moved into the Pratt house.

The Lester Goulet children have been quite ill with the flu this week. Mrs. Willie McGinnis visited Mrs. Arnold Slippy Tuesday.

L. H. McConn is building a brooder house and fixing up for 500 chicks to be received about the middle of April.

Mr. and Mrs. Ross Healy and Henry Hardman were in Vale and Nyssa Monday on business.

Carl Hill is setting out a family orchard this week.

SUNBONNET LASSIES

By Betty Rookstool

A group of six hiked to the home of Dorothy Wolf on March 25, where they met with other members.

The meeting was opened by singing a song. Roll Call was answered by a rock garden plant and an insect of the lawn. We had a double lesson on account of climbing the Butte last time. The yell, pladage and motto were given.

The next meeting will be at the B. F. Rookstool home April 8. Each member will bring a light lunch. Roll call will be answered by the greatest attraction of the lily pond.

The meeting was adjourned and lunch was served. Games were played and all hiked home.

POULTRY

---And Its Care
By WILEY CLOWERS

This week the information I have is somewhat in general, in other words, there are a number of small items that need be mentioned immediately. For instance, I notice that very few brooder houses have sufficient if any ventilation. This problem can be corrected without cost. It is one of the most essential ways of brooding young chicks.

Make sure there is some sort of ventilation at the very highest point in the brooder house. Also make sure that incoming air doesn't come as a draft directly on the young chicks. Perhaps the easiest method is to cut a small drop board, preferably on the south side of the brooder house. The general size of door is 4 feet long and 12 inches high; must be hinged from the bottom to swing into the brooder house.

Panels must be placed so that incoming air must rise upward only. Another important point to be mentioned is—it is better for chicks to have room a little too cool than to be in one even a few degrees too warm.

Another point worth mentioning, it is very necessary to keep litter cleaned up at this time of the year. Chicks at this stage have the least vitality of any time during their entire life. Now is the time when Coccidiosis affects chicks most severely.

Next week I shall give you some record as to the average weight of growing chicks in various ages.

ELDORADO GRANGE

Eldorado grange met in regular session on Friday, April 24 with 34 members present. Eight candidates were given the third and fourth degrees.

The lecturer then took charge with a short literary program. Then a spelling match was held with everyone spelling which resulted in a draw. The single men of the grange then served a lovely oyster supper which was greatly enjoyed by all.

The kitchen, the new addition to grange hall is practically completed excepting building in cupboards, tables and benches.

Sister Visits—

House guests of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Thompson last week were Mrs. Thompson's sister and husband and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Bowman and Wm. Bowman of Riverside, Cal. While here the two men visited with relatives in Boise and Mrs. Thompson and Mrs. Bowman visited their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Long in Arcadia, Mrs. A. M. Lackey of Ontario and their father, H. D. Lackey of Harper.

STOCK AND GRAIN MARKETS

(Editor's Note: The following market information is supplied from material obtained over the Government leased market wire in the office of the extension economist at Oregon state college. The material is in the form of a weekly summary of trends in the livestock market and is not intended to replace spot day by day market reports.)

CATTLE MARKETS

Cattle prices at north Portland failed to stand up to the last week's close following the receipt of a salable supply of about 2100 head of cattle on Monday. This was about the same number as were received all last week. A few fed steers brought $3.25 to $9 while some were held for $9.25. The extreme top last week was $9.40 for part of a lead of yearlings.

At San Francisco the top price reported was $8.70, although sellers were holding out for $9 for good fat stuff. The Chicago market was strong on the top grades only. Highest price reported was $13.25 for prime heavy steers. Most activity, however, was in the $11 grades.

Substantial gains in the price of medium and lower grade slaughter animals occurred at most eastern markets during February and March. The average price of good grade steers at Chicago ranged around $10.65, approximately 65c higher than early February prices. Low prices and abundant supplies of feeds, as well as the prospect of improved prices for slaughter cattle, have created strong demand for stocker and feeder cattle, causing prices to advance sharply since October. Prices of stocker and feeder cattle at Kansas City reached the highest point since the spring of 1930.

SHEEP AND LAMB MARKETS

About 2700 head of salable sheep and lambs were received at north Portland over the past week end, indicating a supply about equal to last week. The market was steady with good to choice fed lambs selling at $8 to $8.25, which was slightly higher than closing prices last week. Spring lambs were scarce and quoted around $9.50.

Although conditions in the northwest have been rather favorable for spring lambs, supplies have not been greatly different from last year. In the United States as a whole the early spring lamb crop is expected to be slightly smaller than the large crop of 1938, the reduction being most marked between now and July 1. California still reports insufficient rain for good feed conditions except in the Mohave desert area where good rains fell last week.

Traders now estimate that around 150,000 head of lambs have been contracted in the San Joaquin valley area, or about the same number up to this time of a year ago. A large portion of those contracted are feeding lambs. A few fat lamb contracts were on an $8 to $8.25 basis for March delivery. In the Sacramento valley buying for future delivery has been rather quiet. A few spot purchases were at $8 to $8.35.

HOG MARKETS

Hog prices at north Portland declined on Monday after some strengthening influences late last week. With a salable supply of 2100 head on hand Monday, prices declined sharply with most of the light butchers selling around $7.60 to $7.75. Some feeder pigs sold up to $8.

At San Francisco quotations ranged up to $7.90 and at Chicago the top price offered was $7.70.

WOOL MARKETS

Most of the trading on the Boston wool market last week consisted of small lots needed for piecing out supplies to fill in old orders for goods. Prices were mostly steady to slightly lower. There was an occasional inquiry for average to good, fine, French combing territory wools in original bags at 65c to 68c, scoured basis. Some houses were offering similar wools from the new clip for future delivery under 65c, but buyers were not much interested at that price.

Developments in the foreign wool markets are expected to have an important effect on the domestic situation during the next several months. The spread between domestic and foreign prices is now relatively wide, causing imports to increase somewhat.

Stocks of wool in the principal exporting countries are smaller than a year ago, but supplies in foreign importing countries, with exception of Japan, are larger this year than last. Mill consumption of wool in the United States in January was somewhat smaller than in December but was more than twice as large as in January last year. January was the seventh consecutive month in which mill consumption exceeded that of a year earlier.
