Columbia Empire Buying Campaign In Full Swing

Campaign Manager Reports Good Co-operation

Cooperation has never been more marked or extensive as in the present 1939 campaign advocating the purchases of products produced within the Columbia basin, stated Geo. L. Baker, manager of the Columbia Empire Industries, Inc., in his mid-campaign report to the board of directors of the organization at their annual meeting in Portland.

Social, civic, school and industrial organizations are participating in this movement to build prosperity into the northwest as never before. Both small communities and large metropolitan areas are reporting intense interest and enthusiasm, stated Baker.

"The keystone of this arch of co-operation throughout the entire Columbia river area has been the newspaper organizations serving each of their communities, fostering the Buy to Work and Work to Buy activities, coordinating the plans of promotion and merchandising with the retailers of Columbia Empire products."

"Efforts of the people within the Columbia Empire to attain a march of progress have not been in vain," Baker declared. "Comparison of the figures for 1935 with 1937 as shown in the U. S. Government Census of Business shows that the state of Oregon, with less government aid, has outstripped its neighboring states in the march back to prosperity. I attribute a large part of this to the awakening consciousness of the people of this area to ask for products produced within this area," Baker concluded.

Groot was returning to his home about 2 a. m. when he noticed a flame and aroused the Jensens.

Farmers Warned On "White Top"

COUNTY AGENTS OFFICE WILL GIVE ASSISTANCE

White top, the worst of the perennial noxious weeds, can be located no better than at any other season of the year because it is in full bloom, according to R. M. McKennon, county agent. The white blossoms of the patches of this weed can be distinguished for a considerable distance. Farmers are urged to be on the lookout for patches of white flowered weeds with which they are not familiar.

Small patches of white top can be effectively eliminated with applications of carbon bi-sulphide if it is possible to irrigate the land so that it will be full of moisture at the time of application.

The cost of carbon bi-sulphide is too high for use on any but very small areas. The only satisfactory method of elimination of large areas of the weed is by clean cultivation.

It is especially important to keep white top from forming seed even if measures to eliminate the weed cannot be adopted. The county agent's office is prepared to furnish equipment and assistance for applying chemicals to noxious weeds anywhere in the county. A supply of chemicals is kept on hand by the county which can be sold to farmers at about two-thirds of the actual cost of the material. This material can be obtained through the county agent's office in Ontario.

Onion Growers Group Elects Directors

H. K. HASHITANI ELECTED AS PRESIDENT OF BOARD

At their first general meeting at the Oregon-Idaho Japanese Community hall near Ontario, the newly organized Eastern Oregon Onion Growers association elected as its board of directors H. K. Hashitani, Nyssa; K. Hirai, N. Nitta, and Y. Miyamoto, Vale; and K. Wada, Ontario.

The five directors elected as their officers: Hashitani, president; Wada, vice president; Miyamoto, secretary, and Nitta, treasurer.

With the assistance of Oregon State college, Iowa State college and the U. S. Department of Agriculture, designs and plans are rapidly being completed for the first storage unit.

So large are the operations of the grower members that this first unit with its capacity of 90,000 crates, will hold only a small part of their annual crop. In fact, Nitta, who attracted nation-wide attention last year with his enormous yield at Jamieson, is expected to produce enough onions this fall to fill such a storage.

The association is unique in that while its membership number only 20, few organizations in the west control more onions. This is true because the members are distributed over the entire eastern Oregon territory and only the largest growers in each district are included.

The local team will meet Homedale here on the home diamond tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock in a post season game. The Homedale team has been defeated but once in B league competition.

Nyssa, undefeated in the first five games, lost two close contests to Ontario and Vale Friday and Tuesday. The Ontario game was played on nearly even terms, neither team scoring until Graham with two men on base in the fifth inning slapped out a two base hit to score two runs. Ontario promptly came back in its half of that inning to score three runs. Errors by the Nyssa infield proved costly in allowing Ontario to score. The final score was Ontario 3, Nyssa 2.

Vale evened up its series with Nyssa Tuesday defeating the locals by a 2-1 margin. Vale scored both runs in the first two innings. Nyssa had difficulty in hitting the opposing pitchers. The only Nyssa score was by Graham on a hit by David Malone into center field.

Journal Sponsors Pig Feeding Project

4-H CLUB SUMMER SCHOOL SCHOLARSHIP TO BE AWARDED

The Nyssa Gate City Journal will sponsor a 4-H club pig feeding project, in Malheur county.

This decision was made the first part of the week when the editor, Louis P. Thomas, and E. M. Hauser, Malheur county club agent met in conference and went over the details of the project, the award for which will be a scholarship to the 4-H club summer school, with tuition and transportation paid by the Journal.

This project is in line with the policy of the Nyssa Journal in lending its aid in the development of the agricultural and livestock activities of the county. As its purpose the project will give practical experience in the feeding of pigs for market and to demonstrate the rate of gain, cost of grain, and the profit possible.

Any regularly enrolled 4-H pig club member in Malheur county will be eligible to enter this contest. Application must be made through county club agent, Hauser.

The requirements are designed to cover the widest field in order to best reach the objective of project. Four pigs or more from the same litter must be fed for market purposes, must be farrowed before March 1, 1939, and must be entered in the contest at weaning time. Contestants will be required to keep accurate feed and weight records for a period of at least four months. A special record book may be obtained from club agent Hauser whose offices are in Ontario.

Another requirement of the project is that the pigs must be shown at the Malheur county fair, and the clubber winning the county fair contest will be afforded the opportunity of showing his pigs at the Pacific International Livestock Exposition held in Portland this fall.

At the county fair the basis of awards will be on quality of exhibit; greatest average rate of gain in weight; lowest cost per pound of gain in weight; and the completeness and accuracy of the record book, including the story of the individuals activity in regards to the project.

Fire Department Called Out At 4:20 a. m.

Fire, starting in a frame lean-to in the rear of the Sherwood building, broke out at 4:20 this morning.

Damage to the building, it has been roughly estimated, will amount to about $2500, which is partly covered by insurance.

The Sinclair restaurant was damaged the most, the fire seeming to center in the kitchen. Other businesses occupying the building are the Owyhee Barber shop and the Owyhee Beauty shop.

The store occupied by the latter two was damaged mostly by smoke. The fire damaged the wiring in the building to such an extent that the beauty parlor had to transfer its business to Ruths Beauty Nook.

The agents for the insurance company holding the policy, the Nyssa Realty company, had an adjuster on the scene of the fire at about 10 a. m., who immediately contacted the owner of the building, H. R. Sherwood and proceeded to make an estimate of the loss.

FARMERS WARNED ON WASTE WATER

The county court, Wednesday through a resolution introduced by commissioner L. P. Peterson, instructed J. Edwin Johnson, county engineer, to enforce the law requiring landowners to dispose of irrigation waste water in drain ditches and to keep the water off the county roads.

Peterson explained that it had been brought to his attention that farmers in some instances were ignoring the law on the matter, which was resulting in widespread damage to county roads.

The county court also heard three petitioners object to the use, as a county road, of two miles of the railway road leading to the Owyhee dam. Ewen and Earl Chard and Charles P. Piegel were the petitioners. Ewen Chard offered the right-of-way through his place to the county for $600 and a rabbit fence, would rebate $300 if the county would lower the grade of the road, at the same time raise the level of a piece of ground on his farm that borders the road.

The county court passed through Nyssa today on an inspection trip to the road in question.
