SALEM—With reorganization of the Liquor Control Commission only three political plums remain for the picking of the Republicans. These are the insurance commissioner, the corporation commissioner and the state purchasing agent, all lucrative positions and all held by Democratic hold-overs from the Martin regime.

Just what might be the intention of Governor Sprague toward the removal of James H. Hazlett as corporation commissioner or of Hugh H. Earle as insurance commissioner, the governor alone knows and so far he has refused to take the public into his confidence. Hazlett whose term expired just two days before the republican administration took over, was reappointed by Governor Martin as one of his last official acts and still has three and one-half years of his new term to serve. Earle, also serving under appointment by Governor Martin, has two more years remaining of his term. Both of these officials, however, are subject to removal at any time by the governor and there are a number of "deserving" Republicans who are earnestly hoping that the governor will not delay too long before he completes his political house-cleaning.

Dan J. Fry, state purchasing agent, is an appointee of the board of control. While Fry is a Democrat and two members of the board are republicans it is generally admitted that he has made an outstanding record for efficiency in his particular job and there does not appear to be any disposition on the part of the board to dispense with his services.

In spite of the fact that Governor Sprague has now been in office more than six months the bulk of his mail and a majority of his callers deal with applications for jobs. Every change in department heads is the signal for a fresh onslaught on the part of the hopeful horde. Just now interest of the job hunters centers largely in the liquor control organization and in the new parole organization where more than 200 applications have been received for the four field jobs yet to be assigned.

LIQUOR TAXES DISTRIBUTED

A total of $31,849.36 in liquor taxes was distributed among the cities and counties of Oregon by Secretary of State Snell this week. The amounts ranged from a low of 33 cents to the little municipality of Cornucopia in Baker county to a high of $10,078 to the city of Portland.

PRISON INMATE RECORD SET

Population at the Oregon state prison continues to show a steady growth with a total of 1113 prisoners in the institution Saturday, to establish a new all time high record.

"HOLDING DOWN THE OFFICE"

Senate President Robert M. Duncan of Burns who came to Salem to pinch hit for Governor Sprague while the latter was representing Oregon at the San Francisco fair last week said that he did not find the job of governing a great state such a strenuous one. Duncan said he spent most of his time "holding down the office."

NEW P.V.C. SECRETARY

Ralph Mitchell, veteran Portland newspaperman, has succeeded Miss Ella Biller as secretary of the public utilities commission. Miss Biller is being retained in the department as private secretary to Commissioner O. R. Bean.

VETS COMMISSION IN REAL ESTATE BUSINESS

The World War Veterans State Aid commission is now in the real estate business to the extent of a $3,129,545 investment, according to Jerrold Owen, executive secretary. Included in the commission's holdings are 460 farms and 940 city properties, all acquired through foreclosures to protect loans made by the state.

STATE PROPERTY HOLDINGS

Property holdings of the state of Oregon are valued at an aggregate of $31,203,719.02, according to a report prepared by Clifford Mudd, state property custodian. State buildings alone represent an investment of $23,902,371, according to Mudd, while other property is listed at $7,301,348.02. The state board of higher education is the biggest property owner in the state's family with the highway department, second. The state owns 674 automobiles valued at $470,249.91 and 672 trucks valued at $1,155,701. A total of 1976 typewriters are in use in the numerous state departments. These are valued at $175,577.
