Letter Tells of Quake—

In a letter received recently by Mrs. C. Klinkenberg from her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Wm. T. Klinkenberg of Chignik, Alaska, she was given some first hand knowledge of the eruption of the volcano which is just 30 miles from Chignik. Mrs. Klinkenberg stated that fine coal black ashes fell and drifted in to everything. Worse than a dust storm in this country. They would lessen for a while and then when the crater spouted again a new deluge would come carried by the winds. There was also a heavy earthquake at the time of the eruption. And altogether being a close neighbor to a spouting volcano is no joke.
