COW HOLLOW
By The Happy Farmer

Our primary election has come and gone. The President's message caused so much concern that we almost forgot the primary. Nobody questions the necessity of increasing the national defense. Sure we need a good stiff national defense. The President assures us that we won't be drawn into the European conflict. Who fears a European armed invasion on United States soil? It would be easier and much more sensible for them to establish and fortify a base in one of the weaker nations to the south of us. Then it would be up to us to drive them out.

Was up to Mr. Sessions Monday. Mr. Sessions had company from up in the hills. It is indeed a pleasure to sit and listen to a couple of old hill-billies discuss their adventures in the hills. It is also pathetic to listen to the lamentations of one that has left his hills to come down to the valley to farm and get rich quick and easy.

Dude Parker has most all of his place in crop now. The first of the week he had not started to run any water yet. Two years ago Dude put in a large acreage of crop and then it was impossible for him to water it all.

Two years ago Clarence Niccum put in a large acreage of new land and couldn't water it properly so his crop was very light. This year he is putting in about 25 or 30 acres of new land again and is having plenty of fun trying to water it. Queer how history repeats itself.

The reclamation has put Russell Howell back on night patrol duty again this year. The canal is now carrying more water than it has ever carried before. There is a spot up on Howell's place where the canal bank is getting very soft. The reclamation have a fleet of trucks hauling gravel and dumping it in the canal to reinforce this spot.

This week spot is near the old break of 1938 and if it should go out it will come down the same wash and give us another wash as bad or worse than the one before. We are not much worried, for if the reclamation held the canal last year when the whole mountain side was slipping, guess they can easily take care of this.

Mrs. Elza Niccum received a telegram Saturday telling her that her father, Mr. Fisher, of Twin Falls, Idaho, had dropped dead with a heart attack on the streets of Boise. Mrs. Niccum left a note on the table telling Elza and the kiddies of what had happened and she went back with the messenger. Elza received a telegram from her Monday telling him that her father would be buried Tuesday at Twin Falls and she would be home Wednesday.

There is lots of hay being cut in Cow Hollow now. Those that have a bunch of large cards printed saying 'Please keep well oiled and not cutting are observing the old mower pretty close.

Mort Wixon's last year's haystack was sold and chopped last week. That cleans up the last of the old hay in Cow Hollow. Most of Doc Roffington's old hay is here yet but it is said. A sheep man bought it last fall then didn't feed it up. There isn't near so much hay left on the project as we all feared last that there would be.

There has been considerable hay plowed up. The Cow Hollow hay crop will not be but little larger than that of last year.

Elza Niccum says "I am going to return as soon as you are through with it" and tuck on the tongue of all of my farming tools." We might suggest that he also insert the word "repair" before the word "and return". It certainly is provoking to have to go after your tools when you need them. Especially if you then have to repair them before you can use them.
