ATTITUDE TOWARD NATIONAL GUARD CHANGING

(The Welser American)
WITH the realization that our national defense is inadequate—the National Guard is taking on added importance.

An article in a recent issue of Life magazine is timely when it states, "Americans may now thank God that some 230,000 of their fellow citizens have been willing to sacrifice spare time and effort, give up their vacations and risk their jobs, in order to learn how to defend their country. To other citizens who in the present crisis want to do more than talk about strengthening their country, the National Guard now offers a chance to help. It needs men, some twenty thousand of them, to fill up ranks to its present authorized strength of 250,000. But the chance to help is not limited to the physically qualified men of 18 to 35 who are eligible to enlist in the Guard. The greatest obstacle to recruiting new Guardsmen, and to keeping old members in service, has always been the reluctance of employers to give their workers time off for the two (now three) weeks of field training and occasional extra duty required of Guardsmen. The employer who not only permits but encourages his men to join or remain in the Guard—and to small employers that is frequently a hard sacrifice—can now render his country real service."

TIME TO SWITCH TO COOL COOKING

● July is here—and the hot days of August yet to come. Wouldn't you like to go through this summer without the drudgery of cooking in a hot kitchen? Electric cooking keeps the heat in the stove, out of the kitchen. And its automatic controls give you leisure time away from kitchen work — time to use for things you want to do. With step-down rates,
