STATE TOTALITARIANISM, something of which a lot of New Dealers keep assuring us cannot happen here, is at least going to be given a good try in Glen Taylor, the so-called "singing cowboy" of Twin Falls who is the candidate on the Democratic ticket for the state of Idaho. As to Taylor's candidacy as a Democrat—he is no more a Democrat than Stalin is, what he actually is, is a "liberal" "New Dealer"—for in our mind there is as much difference between a Democrat and a "New Dealer" as there is between daylight and dark. Taylor is advocating the taking over by the government of ALL BUSINESS, large and small—he is careful however, as all these crackpots are, to not mention what is to happen to the farmers under his proposed set-up—but Russia has the identical system that Taylor is advocating, and not so many years ago some 3,000,000 farmers in the Ukraine were actually starved to death because they would not subscribe to, and support, collective farming.

Government ownership, of anything, is not the solution to our economic or agricultural woes, rather it would seem to us, should the government encourage private enterprise through research, wise counseling and protection of markets. No, it is not surprising that Taylor is advocating state totalitarianism, for our line of reasoning has been coached that way for the last eight years, and it will be interesting to watch the Idaho farmers to see how they are willing to sell themselves "down the river", at the coming election.

FOREST FIRES, and range fires for that matter, wreck a havoc that is hard to value, either in dollars and cents loss now, or in the future.

To those who have not seen burned over land, it might be worth their time and effort to go to some spot that has been visited by a fire and there ponder the seriousness of a carelessly tossed cigarette, match or the "heel" from a pipe, (cigars are firebrands too).

During the past week we have visited an area of range land that had burned over—what a desolate, forelorn sight! Grass land that meant food for stock and money for the stockman, gone up in smoke—leaving nothing but parched earth, it's blackness relieved only by the white ash of the charred sage brush.

Not all forest or range land fires can be blamed on the city dweller—for man, a farmer is just as careless in throwing smokes or matches out a car window as the city man. Ceaseless vigilance is the price that we must all pay if we are to preserve our forests for the hunter and vacationer, and our range lands for those who like to hunt game birds.

Let us all resolve to be a good sportsman as well as good hunters, being sure that our camp fires have really been put out with plenty of water and that our smokes are not only out but well buried with dirt.
