"Spot" Norcott Hies Home

On Thursday night when Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Olsen drove to Nampa they took Spot, Dr. E. D. Norcott's Llewellyn setter along. This is not the first time that the dog has gone along with the Olsens to Nampa, in fact did so frequently and was well acquainted with many of their friends. But on Thursday night the electrical storm was too much for Spot's nerves and he came up missing. Not to be found anywhere, although he did pay a short visit to one of their friends before he became lost, and later returned to Mrs. Olsen's mother's home for two days stay, leaving there only two hours before Mr. and Mrs. Olsen returned again on Saturday evening. Neither newspaper nor radio advertising could locate him. But on Sunday Spot, in person, reported in at the Norcott's back door, foot sore and very weary after a thirty-five mile tramp home. Now he's busy teaching Doc's new imported hunting pooch a few old tricks of the game.
