Only stand of Port Orford cedar in the world may be saved by the government. For years Japan bought the cedar logs, sent shiploads to Japan, and the supply of trees gradually diminished. These trees are stubborn about reforestation, although the forest service is conducting experiments with indications of success. There is a probability that the last stand of these cedars may be declared a national monument and thereby be preserved for future generations. Protest, if any, will come from county officials who do not want the timber removed from the tax roll.

Despite re-employment resulting from the national defense program and British munitions orders, there is still the relief problem. The government is spending about 11 million dollars a month on relief and President Roosevelt will ask Congress for approximately 350 million dollars in January to carry the relief work on until next June 30. The President continues approving as eligible for WPA funds many county wide road programs in Oregon and Washington, but which are dependent on additional funds being voted by congress.

When the Mexican government learned that vice president elect Wallace was being sent to attend the inauguration of the newly elected Mexican president it decided to play no favorites and sent an invitation to the defeated Republican vice presidential candidate, McNary of Oregon. War or no war, Reclamation Commissioner John Page is asking the director of the budget for enough money to carry on the reclamation projects in the Pacific northwest.

Lift Up THINE Eyes

IN the five generations since 1740, we Americans have performed the heroic task of clearing, populating, farming, industrializing and civilizing a country larger than England, France, Germany, Spain and Italy put together.

Because we have looked always forward and upward, and have worked hard, we have achieved the highest standard of living in the world.

One of the most potent of all the forces that have created this living standard is advertising, which inspires us to want always the new and better things and ways of life.

Of late years it has been the fashion among our radical reformers to attack advertising as an economic waste.

How silly, in view of the magnificent service it has rendered us! Let's encourage it and use it for an ever-brighter future.
