THIS WEEK IN DEFENSE

Published through the co-operation of Nyssa Gate City Journal, The National Editorial Association, Defense Advisory Committee and the Office of Government Reports

President Roosevelt, declaring a strike at the North American Aviation plant in Inglewood, Calif., was impeding the defense program ordered the Army to operate the plant after workers rejected Mediation Board terms for settlement. Two days after taking over, the Army reported "100 per cent efficiency" with all employees returned to work. The President said plants which might be forced to place under Federal control will be returned to private management as soon as possible.

The House voted for an amendment to the 1942 Army appropriation bill to prohibit the payment of funds to any individual or company falling within 10 days to abide by Mediation Board recommendations for settlement of disputes. The Senate approved a declaration that strikes or lockouts in defense industries are "contrary to sound public policy."

The Mediation Board announced settlement of three labor disputes, including the dispute of the soft coal industry. The U. S. Conciliation Service announced settlement of 34 additional disputes.

SELECTIVE SERVICE
Selective Service Headquarters ordered reclassification of all registrants "impeding the defense program." The order said "the citizen who has been transferred because of the job he is performing in the national defense program cannot expect the status of deferment when he ceases to work on the job for which he was deferred."

The Senate approved a bill to defer men who reach their 28th birthday by July 1 of this year, except those already in the Service.

FOREIGN AFFAIRS
The State Department announced sinking of the American freighter Robin Moor in the south Atlantic by a German submarine. Announcing the rescue of only 11 of 46 persons forced to abandon the ship, Under Secretary Wells told the press that international law requires precautions must be taken for the safety of passengers and crew before a ship is sunk.

SHIPS
The OPM granted full priority for materials necessary in the building of 289 merchant ships for U. S. and Great Britain and the 312 special lease-land vessels.

OPM Production Director Biggers, speaking at uebec, said "almost every ship now being built in our rapidly expanding yards is ahead of schedule." The Maritime Commission directed the Southern Pacific Company to deliver for national defense purposes its entire fleet of 10 vessels (66,600 tons), formerly used in coastwise trade.

LEASE-LEND AID
President Roosevelt reported to Congress that $75,202,425 of war materials have been transferred to the democracies since the enactment of the lease-land law and $4,277,412,879 has been allocated for further aid out of the $7,000,000,000 provided by Congress. He said that work has started on agreements with foreign governments on the terms and conditions of the aid they receive.

CIVILIAN DEFENSE
Civilian Defense Director LaGuardia stated organization of medical groups, auxiliary police and fire units, sanitation, and first aid squads are the necessary basis for adequate home defense. He said panic is to be avoided under all circumstances and it will be necessary to educate the public to the absolute necessity of obeying instructions.

Mr. LaGuardia said firemen and Policemen from 40 Eastern cities will be trained in combating poison gas and incendiary and high explosive bombs in 17, two-week courses at Edgewood Arsenal, Md., under the direction of the Army Chemical Warfare Service. Trainees will return home and instruct fellow townsmen.

OPM announced it will soon begin a nation-wide campaign to collect scrap aluminum from civilians. A test drive in Richmond, Va., and at Madison, Wis., it was said, produced enough of the metal to build 16 pursuit planes or two and one-half bombers.

OIL
Defense Petroleum Coordinator

Ickes told a press conference that curbs on petroleum consumption along the Atlantic coast appear inevitable but the degree of restriction would depend on public cooperation in conserving oil and gasoline. He said the American Automobile Association has pledged a campaign to cut down consumption of gasoline by motorists by slower driving, elimination of hasty "getaways" in traffic, and proper engine adjustments. He said Bureau of Standards tests showed a car which gets 18 miles to the gallon at 30 m. p. h. will get only 8.6 miles to the gallon at 80.

POWER
The Federal Power Commission reported "many areas of the country are now... facing power shortages... unless orders are placed immediately for large amounts of additional capacity for 1943, serious shortages will develop..."

OPM Director General Knudsen announced OPM has formally approved the St. Lawrence Waterway and Power Project "as part of the all-out defense effort." The President allotted $200,000 for construction of a cooperative transmission system to carry power from the Pensacola Dam to 15 REA cooperatives in Kansas, Arkansas, Missouri, and Oklahoma to provide for development of zinc deposits for defense.

COAL
The Office of the Bituminous Coal Consumers' Council announced a campaign—endorsed by defense consumer, price and transportation officials—to promote buying and storing of next winter's coal this summer to lighten the load that movement of crops and defense materials will place upon the transport system beginning next fall. The Office warned consumers against "panic" buying at high prices and said the supply of bituminous coal is ample for all needs.

PRICES
Administrator Henderson, of the Office of Price Administration and the Civilian Supply, arranged with the industries concerned to prevent unjustified price increases in coffee, plywood, paper board, crude oil, gasoline and automobiles. Mr. Henderson told certain auto firms to withdraw recently announced price rises because they "are inconsistent with the favorable earning position of the industry."

PRIORITIES
OPM placed borax and boric acid, aluminum scrap, zinc, copper, and synthetic rubber under full priority control. OPAC announced programs to allocate sufficient quantities of these materials for essential civilian needs.

Vice President Wallace, speaking in Washington, said the democratic way is for each citizen to put off non-essential purchases until after the emergency so that more raw material will be available for defense.

DEFENSE HOUSING
Defense Housing Coordinator Palmer announced there have been completed 14,293 defense dwelling units in 55 localities of 26 States and territories. Speaking to the Conference for National Housing Inventory, Mr. Palmer said it may be necessary to ask Congress for an additional $500,000,000 to construct 125,000 homes in defense areas in addition to the 97,000 already contracted for.

On Honor Roll—
Merle Kurtz of Newell Heights was one of sixty eight students listed on the honor roll at Eastern Oregon College of Education for the Spring term. To win this honor students must make "B" grades or better or 3.0.

In California—
Mr. and Mrs. Harold Fletcher left Monday last for California where Mr. Fletcher has employment.

Mr. and Mrs. Morris F. Solomon have rented their home for the summer.

Henneman's On Vacation—
Mr. and Mrs. George Henneman left last week for Springview, Neb. where they will visit their parents. While the Hennemans are on their vacation Ted Paschke is in charge of the store.

EPISCOPAL SUNDAY SCHOOL

Clerk Leaves—
Bill Hayes, who has been a clerk in the Nyssa Golden Rule Store, has left that firm and is now employed by the King Packing Company in Nampa. Dean Wyckoff has taken his place, according to Carlos Buchner, manager.

Soldier-Son Visits—
Sergeant Jim Atkeson, U. S. Air Corps, was a Nyssa visitor, Friday to Sunday of last week. Jim is the son of Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Atkeson, Nyssa, and is stationed at McCord field. He was recently promoted to the rank of sergeant.

Mrs. Mary Miller and son Donald returned home Monday last after a three weeks trip to Sterling, Colo.
