They squeeze Petroleum to get better orange juice

In orange groves, a gas is "injected" into irrigation water and carried to the roots of the trees to make bigger, sweeter, juicier oranges.
 Because scientists at the "University of Petroleum," Shell's $3,500,000 research laboratories, "squeezed" a petroleum gas and got hydrogen. This they combined with nitrogen to make excellent fertilizer (Shell NH₃).
 Simple? Hardly that. Nor was it simple to combine the right molecules from petroleum and make synthetic rubber, glycerine, explosives — or the new Solutized Shell Gasoline.

Try a tankful of research genius... NEW Solutized SHELL

Two scientific factors advance the Road Performance Rating of the new Shell Gasoline to an all-time high:
1. It is refined with the Solutizer Process (Shell research laboratories' Patent No. 2,149,379). This steps up performance by removing the "pro-knock mercaptans."
2. Thermal conversion makes it extra rich in iso-compounds similar to iso-octane — first produced commercially by Shell scientists to give America 100-octane aviation gasoline.
 Your Shell dealer now has new Solutized Shell (at regular price) and Shell Premium — try a tankful today!
