Cow Hollow

By The Happy Farmer

This past week seems to be Cow Hollow week for remembering back home. Early Sunday morning a car pulled into Russell Howell's yard and out stepped three men, two of Mrs. Howell's brothers and Russell's aged father all from Oklahoma. They were not so surprised at the younger men but at the older father it was quite a surprise.

They made the trip in two days and nights and all went fine, one of the young men brought his wife and three kiddies along.

The Pioneers from Nebraska held a picnic at the Cow Hollow Community Hall Sunday. There were eighty-one present which represented seventeen families all from one town in Nebraska. They had such a grand time that they decided to make an annual affair of it.

They elected officers to look after it so next year they should have a real bunch of old timers present.

Monday afternoon a car pulled into Elza Niccum's yard and there was his father age 72 and his uncle and aunt that he had not seen for around fifteen years.

The Chalk Butte Grange was well attended Tuesday night. The program was put on by the Oregon Slope Grange. There were Brother Grangers present from most all over the county, Willow Creek, Vale, Oregon Slope, Boulevard, Oregon Trail and Kingsman Colony.

Our mowing machines are becoming to us again. We have hardly finished up with all the first cutting and now we got to start on the second. Shorty Schneider has his second stacked already and Roy Rookstool and Claud Britton will cut right away. Then we will all be tumbling into line so the rush is on again only this time we add the grain harvest in too.

Elza Niccum was the first one to harvest any grain in the Hollow. He combined four acres of winter wheat Friday, made around thirty bushels per acre.

Claud Britton has cut about five acres and has it stacked. Claud put out five acres of wheat and he received notice that he has over stepped his allotment. You should hear him tell about it. Claud came from a dry-farm country where they count their wheat in mile square sections not in acres.
