"Our new neighbors have moved in. I know I am going to like them." How do you know?" smiled friend husband, "you haven't even met them. What do you know about them?"

"Oh, I can tell a lot about them. I saw The Nyssa Trader truck deliver all their furniture."

"And what, fair wife, does that mean?"

"Plenty, only the better class of people buy from The Nyssa Trader. They sell for cash and it takes thrift and industry to save money. You know, my darling, the class of people who save their money to buy furniture are intelligent and clever. They don't go on drunk's—they are considerate of others—and careful buyers—and besides the lovely mahair daveno we bought from The Nyssa Trader's cost 40.00 less than Mrs. Ritzy Snob paid for hers. Mrs. Ritzy Snob always buys on time payments out of town and is happy only when she brags about how much things cost—but she is always borrowing a cup of sugar of a lb. of butter—and forgetting to return it—our new neighbors are better class—wait and see."

"You are right, dear wife, and you too, are clever. We will always buy from The Nyssa Trader. They get anything we want and we save from 25% to 40%—"
