WASHINGTON, D. C.—Every employe on the cantonments under construction at Medford and the Corvallis-Monmouth area must show proof of his citizenship and fingerprints must be taken and checked by FBI. Employees also must sign a statement that they are not affiliated with any organization detrimental to the best interests of the U. S. government. It is the law that none but American citizens can be employed on any government work. Naturalized citizens have less difficulty in producing proofs than a native born, for until 25 or 30 years ago there were few communities where vital statistics were kept, and it is impossible for many Americans to offer documentary evidence that they were born here, or where they were born. A birth certificate is now a highly important paper and will become more so with the passing of time.

Already 145 guards are employed at Medford in 40 different guard positions and these are maintained 24 hours a day. Three patrol cars are on duty all the time within the reservation and there are seven telephone stations located within the area. As the project progresses fire equipment and trained personnel will be added. At present there is one fire station, one fire truck centrally located and three firemen in attendance at all times. A retired captain with 20 years experience is fire chief and he has a volunteer fire brigade. This month two more fire trucks will be available. A similar set-up will be instituted at the Corvallis-Monmouth cantonment.

Storage for the wheat crop is worrying high officials as well as farmers of Oregon. Hearing there would be a scarcity of warehouses many farmers, and cooperatives began last winter making applications for priorities. Practically nothing has been done with the applications although the department of agriculture realizes that a serious situation is in the immediate future. Some applications have been made for priorities while others have been applied for a loan with which to pay the cost of construction. The Dalles, for example, by special election voted $150,000 for a grain warehouse and is awaiting federal action. Half a dozen other towns in Eastern Oregon have applied for priorities to accommodate the surrounding farmers, such as Condon, Heppner, etc.

The wheat farmer is confronted with a great crop and a heavy carryover and no opportunity to dispose of his grain abroad. The British are obtaining what wheat they need from Canada. Europe is suffering from a shortage of bread, but the American farmer cannot send a bushel to Axis dominated countries. And now the farmer is having difficulty finding materials for warehousing, plus the problem of finding help to harvest.

OPA, which is rationing gasoline, announces that farmers can have all the motor oil they require to operate farm machinery and trucks for transporting food to town or to cannery. This exception does not extend to city dwellers unless they are engaged in urgent occupations requiring the use of motor vehicles. The pleasure driver is distinctly "out" and the amount of gas he will be permitted to buy will be so little that, in Oregon where vast spaces must be covered in going to town, he will have to remain at home. Now the rationing is confined to Washington and Oregon on the west coast, but within a few months the prediction is made that rationing of gasoline will be national.

There is no shortage of gasoline or fuel oil, the trouble is that the submarines have sunk too many tankers and the railroad tank cars and tank trucks cannot keep pace with consumption. Homes and buildings with oil burners in Oregon have been advised to change over to burn coal, but there is no assurance that the metal will be available.

The army regulations call for one pint of milk for every soldier every day, if the milk is obtainable. There will be, approximately, 60,000 soldiers in the two Oregon cantonments when they are completed, sometime late this year. This will require a minimum of 15,000 gallons of milk every 24 hours and probably more than that. Portland has been shipping milk to Fort Lewis, near Tacoma, 170 miles, to supplement the supply at that place. The quarter-master department is already calculating its requirements for the Oregon camps.

A measure has been introduced in the senate which will probably pass that body authorizing the Reconstruction Finance corporation to make loans to farmer cooperatives to establish distilleries in which to convert the waste fruit of the state into industrial alcohol. Surplus grain also can be used. These proposed distilleries are intended to conserve sugar (now rationed) by using fruit instead of sugar for making alcohol. Also suggested is the chemical waste from pulp and paper mills which is now emptied into the streams.

COUNTY JUDGE

If nominated and elected, my entire time will be devoted to the interests of Malheur County. As a licensed engineer I am especially interested in all matters pertaining to county roads, and can legally manage this class of work.

"Saved" Anti-freeze

Helps conserve chemicals needed for war materials, but such savings can seriously damage a car's motor and cooling system unless the following rules are observed: Drain the old anti-freeze from the car as soon as cold weather is past; discard all anti-freeze that is brown or rusty unless after standing it clears up; store saved solution in sealed and labeled glass or earthen containers; be sure added anti-freeze added in fall is same brand as saved solution, and have anti-freeze that has been used more than one winter frequently tested and inspected during use.

To the Taxpayers of Malheur County:

DAVID F. GRAHAM

Candidate for Republican

Nomination to the office of

(Paid political advertisement by David F. Graham, Vale, Oregon)

If nominated and re-elected to the office of County Judge, I shall continue to work hard for the best interests of the County; to stand always for the welfare of its people; to help improve conditions by supporting worthy efforts to do so; to oppose all attempts to spend money on things we can get along without until after the War; to cut the running expense of the County to the lowest possible figure consistent with necessity and efficiency; to try to get a road program started to take care of the roads as they should be taken care of, and in charge of some one who can handle it; and to devote my entire time to your service.

Yours sincerely,

DAVID F. GRAHAM
