SALEM, OREGON—Guaged by income tax returns 1941 was the most prosperous year in Oregon's history according to state tax officials.

Income tax collections for 1942 to April 30 totalling $8,262,266.67 were 75.7 percent greater than collections for the same period last year. With an estimated $5,500,000 yet to collect on tax able returns filed tax officials expects 1942 revenues from income taxes to exceed $11,500,000, an increase of more than 50 percent over the $8,012,000 collected last year.

The average tax paid by individuals this year $45.42—was only slightly higher than the average of $41.54 in 1941 but nearly 49,000 more individuals filed taxable returns this year than last, accounting for the increase from $3,398,491 to $5,473,593 in collections from individual tax payers.

At the same time collections from corporations increased from $1,304,250 to $2,788,673 in spite of a slight decrease in the number of corporations filing returns and reflecting greatly increased corporate profits.

Members of the state tax commission estimate that nearly $9,000,000 in income tax revenues will be needed to meet the state and elementary school levies for the next fiscal year, ending June 30, 1943.

Fourth of July celebrations in Oregon, as in all other Pacific coast states, this year, will be confined largely to parades and picnics and noise making will be confined to the blare of the bands, the bombast of the orators and the cheering of the crowds. The sale and use of fireworks and firecrackers of all kinds is strictly banned and Governor Sprague has directed all state police, sheriffs and local police officials to see to it that the ban is enforced. Even the lowly cap pistol has been placed on the taboo list. Furthermore the ban extends to the rural areas as well as to the cities and towns. The ban has been ordered by Lieut. General John L. DeWitt, commanding the western Defense area, whose orders are supreme during the present war emergency.

Tire and gasoline rationing has brought the need for pooling of state owned automobiles to the foreground again. The board of control has instructed Budget Director George Aiken to investigate the system now in operation in the state of Washington. That system it is understood does not involve the use of a central garage but rather a dispatching system through which employees from different state departments can arrange their trips to cut down the number of cars in use.

Governor Sprague denied an unfounded report that he was a candidate for the presidency of Willamette University post from which post Dr. Carl Sumner Knopf has just resigned. The governor said that he was not a candidate for the post and that he definitely plans to return to newspaper work as editor and publisher of the Oregon Statesman as soon as his term of office expires next January.

Sixty law school graduates, including five women, have signified their intention of taking the bar examinations to be held in Salem June 22 and 23 according to Arthur S. Bensen, clerk of the state supreme court. The examinations are being held earlier than usual in order to accommodate a number of the bar aspirants who are scheduled to change their "civvies" for military uniforms about the first of July.
