BUTTON YOUR LIP ON UNFOUNDED REPORTS

Persons spreading unfounded reports, regardless of how far removed the reports might be from the war effort, are playing into the hands of fifth columnists either voluntarily or involuntarily.

One of the chief methods of Nazi agents is to cause dissatisfaction among the people and thus assist in breaking down the national morale.

We are not accusing any Nyssa resident of being a fifth columnist, because there are probably not any fifth columnists here, but the possibility of causing damage is extensive.

One of the rumors recently given circulation centers about the handling of the Japanese labor in this county. Reports indicate that the Japanese living at the labor camp southwest of Nyssa are paid by the government, are furnished food, are allowed to attend the local picture show for half price and are given other consideration not extended to other persons. These reports are not true. The Japanese in the camp are paid the "going" wage and furnish their own food.

It is not the purpose of this editorial to uphold the Japanese or any other minority group in this country, but merely to emphasize the importance of telling only the facts in discussing affairs that have a bearing on national morale.

The government, through its publicity and advertising departments, has called repeatedly upon Americans to refrain from given information that would give "aid and comfort" to the enemy and to avoid discussing matters that would tend to reduce national morale.

It is said that an army travels on its stomach, but it also travels, or at least wins battles, on its courage, as do the civilians at home. Any word, any sentence that tends to reduce that courage is a deadly weapon when it strikes in the right channel. Americans would do well to follow the example of the soldiers, sailors and marines on furlough, who "button their lips" when quizzed about military affairs.

The Japanese are working in the beet, hay, potato and celery fields for the farmers in the county. If they elect to stay in the labor camp they are not paid anything.

At The National Capital

By John W. Kelly
 Washington, D. C. August 6—While it had been supposed that an artillery range would be located somewhere between Bend and Burns, it has now been decided that some 50,000 acres are wanted east of Harrisburg and Halsey, in Lane county. This is to be used in connection with Camp Adair, near Corvallis. Protests to the army engineers have been unavailing. The engineers say the target range is an integral part of the cantonment and while they regret that there is opposition by numbers of farmers in the affected area, the range will be located as planned.

Business men of Burns are on the rampage against the federal bureau of mines; think a congressional investigation should be made, and a petition has been received at the White House, by Vice President Wallace, and by members of the Oregon delegation. Burns people are convinced that there is a deposit of tin at Squaw butte. Much publicity was given the Squaw butte "find" last year, for if there was tin it is just what the government wants, tin being so scarce that it cannot be used on bottle-tops and tin allocated to canneries has been reduced to a minimum. (In the east tin cans are being saved and sent to detinning plants). The Squaw butte area has been examined and tested by every known method of disclosing tin and none has been found. Bureau of mines has assayed samples and has used a machine that unerringly discloses the smallest trace of any known mineral or metal, but there has never been the slightest sign of tin in the bureau samples taken from Squaw butte. A dozen scientists have made individual studies and still no tin. In the face of all this, Burns insists that tin exists in quantity at Squaw butte and wants the president or congress to do something about it.

The plywood industry of Oregon was given a substantial boost when Guderson Bros. of Portland sold the government on the idea of for the maritime commission. The making lifeboats of this material contract recently signed calls for the construction of 1000 such boats in the Guderson plant, involving more than $1,300,000. Heretofore lifeboats for the Liberty ships have been made of steel. Tests have proved that the plywood boats are much stronger and lighter than boats made of steel, and more than 1000 tons of this metal which heretofore has gone into the construction of lifeboats will now be available for other purposes. Much opposition was overcome to induce the maritime commission to accept lifeboats made of plywood but the Gudersons doggedly stuck to the task, spent thousands of dollars proving the practicability of plywood and months of engineering before they finally convinced skeptical naval officers of the merits of their plan. Not only does their contract open the way to wider use of Oregon lumber but its immediate effect is greatly to increase state payrolls.

Between Medford and Ashland, in Rogue river valley, there is a deposit of low grade coal. Bureau of mines has directed one of its engineers to make a survey of this coal bed to determine its depth, extent and the quality of the coal. Army is interested, for the White cantonment in Rogue river valley will require 80,000 tons of coal and the army always prefers obtaining coal as close to an army post as possible. If the coal proves satisfactory this Jackson county fuel will be almost in the heart of the cantonment.

War production board has been advised by the local grange and shippers that the Brogan branch of the Union Pacific in Willow creek valley, Harney county, will handle 2100 head of cattle and 6000 lambs this fall, and the only way to market is over this railroad. War production board, however, announces that the road does not contribute to winning the war and it will take the rails and use them elsewhere.

Dr. S. R. Hyslop, chairman of the Oregon flax and linen board, has been advised that flax importations are now restricted to government agencies. Commodity credit corporation has just closed a contract for flax from Peru, where seed was exported last year from the flax organization at Mount Angel.

With level country and plenty of sunshine, Ontario, Oregon, is asking the war department to establish a training school for fliers at its new airport. A war department engineer at Portland has been instructed to visit Ontario and make a study. The war department promises nothing, but says Ontario and its facilities and possibilities will be given consideration in the event new training fields are decided upon.

HONEY-CANNING RECIPES GIVEN

By Mrs. W. W. Foster
 Honey can be used in place of at least half the sugar called for in recipes which formerly called for all sugar.

Remember to use a large kettle when canning with honey because honey has a tendency to foam and boil over when being cooked.

SYRUP TABLE

1. For sweet fruits—one cup of honey, 1 cup of sugar and 4 cups of boiling water.

2. Slightly acid fruits—one cup of honey, 1 cup of sugar and 3 cups of boiling water.

3. Acid fruits—one cup of honey, 1 cup of sugar and two cups of water.

4. Very acid fruits—one cup of honey, 1 cup of sugar and 1 cup of water.

Add sugar to boiling water, dissolve, then add honey and boil five minutes. Skim. Two much sweetening spoils the natural flavor of fruit. Allow 1 pint of syrup to 1 quart of large fruit.

In canning apricots the second recipe for syrup worked very well, and we found that each quart of fruit then had one-third cup of sugar and one-third cup of honey. If sweeter fruit is desired, use third recipe for syrup for apricots or peaches.
