STENOGRAPHERS, TYPISTS NEEDED

University of Oregon, Eugene, Aug. 6 (Special)—The demand for stenographers in government service and defense industries has been responsible for an increased interest in classes in typing and shorthand at the University of Oregan, Dr. Victor P. Morris, dean of the school of business administration, announced.

A total of 333 students took advantage of the university's offering of these courses during the past school year. Registration in the shorthand classes reached a cumulative total of 163, with 132 women and 31 men. Typing enrollment aggregated 170 students, 128 of whom were women and 42 were men.

The business administration school has received many more requests for students, especially women, to fill stenographic positions than it has been able to supply, Dean Morris said. Salaries are also on the increase for this type of work with expending opportunities for lucrative employment, he added.

STANDARDS FOR TRUCKS CHANGED

PORTLAND, Aug. 6 (Special)—Revised standards for conservation of trucks operated by contract and private carriers in both local and over-the-road service have been set up in a new order announced today by Herman O. Sites, field manager of the ODT motor transport division.

The new order (general order ODT No. 17) will supplant general orders ODT Nos. 4 and 5, governing over-the-road operations of contract and private carriers, and portions of general order No. 6 which govern delivery operations of such carriers.

General order 17 requires that on and after August 1, trucks operated by contract and private carriers in over-the-road service be loaded to capacity on considerable portion of the trip out or back and that the operator use due diligence to obtain a full load over the entire round trip.
