TRAFFIC FATALITIES DROP

Even war has some recompense. Over the New Year's holiday only 115 violent deaths were reported. These were caused by automobile accidents, fire, drownings, shootings and miscellaneous accidents. Because of war conditions, gasoline and tire rationing, traffic accident deaths are running about 50 per cent below normal.

VICTORY TAX WILL PINCH

Aside from purchase of war bonds and stamps, the American people are really going to feel the pinch of war when they start paying the victory tax this month. The tax became effective January 1, but not many employers will deduct it until Saturday and those paying by the month will not deduct it until the end of January. Of course, certain exemptions and credits will be allowed, making the plan complicated like anything else that congress has anything to do with. Anyway, as a result of the credits and exemptions the tax will not amount to the full 5 per cent.

ONLY TWO, SAYS FRANCO

Capital Press, Salem

General Franco of Spain recently made a speech in which he declared that the world has only a choice between communism and fascism. If that were true all of the world that is not in the hands of the axis would immediately become communistic as the better two. But it isn't true. Those two forms of government represent opposite extremes. When peace comes it is hoped, and believed, that those who formulate its terms and thereby make the basis for future governments, will select the best—regardless of where found. If there is anything of virtue in either of the forms of government mentioned, it may be, and should be, incorporated; but the idea that either of the extremes must be adopted in toto is ridiculous.

Mrs. America Meets The War

Mark down for changes in Mrs. America's home during 1943 the new appearance of her pantry shelves. Her old standby—tinned goods—will be wearing new dress for a WPB order largely restricts the use of tin cans for putting up foods except for our armed forces. Some of the old dependables still will be available for civilians but in limited quantities. There will be no more cans of vegetable mixtures, orange juice or Vienna sausage, for example, and baking powder will be in a new container which is not of its present tin content. The amount of soup to be canned for civilians is restricted to one half of the 1942 pack. Spinach and other greens may be picked to the extent of 80 per cent of the 1942 supply. However, it will take about six months before the change is felt and by then new containers

IMPORTANT NOTICE

I will not be able to do any more custom butchering for anyone from this date on for the duration because of OPA regulations. I thank one and all for past patronage and will continue custom work after the war. I will continue beef and pork sales as usual at the Polar Cold Storage.

PRACTICAL HEALTH HINTS

Reliable Sources of Health Information

By Dr. James A. Tobey

COLUMNISTS who write on health have a duty to present only reliable, accurate, impartial facts, free from bias, opinions, or propaganda. The same is true of magazine writers, radio commentators, motion picture producers, and others who offer health information to the public.

Where, then, can he get reliable and safe information on health conservation? He can get it from numerous official and non-official sources, including the government, private welfare organizations, food industries, and many competent professional and lay individuals.

The U. S. Government issues valuable material on personal health, nutrition, infant care, school hygiene, and related subjects. Some of it is sent free, while some is sold at nominal cost. Lists of federal government pamphlets on health, and food, can be obtained without charge from U. S. Superintendent of Documents, Washington, D. C. State and local health departments also issue excellent free booklets on health, which are sent on request to any citizen. Write for them. Similar authoritative material can be obtained from national and local tuberculosis and health associations, child welfare societies, cancer societies, dairy councils, and the like.

A list of authoritative books on health, both popular and technical, can be secured from the American Public Health Association, 1790 Broadway, New York City. Modern newspapers generally print reliable information on health and nutrition. This is also true of most national magazines, particularly women's magazines. An excellent popular journal devoted especially to health is Hygeia, published monthly by the American Medical Association, Chicago, Ill.

Some weekly news magazines are not quite so reliable on health and medical topics. They seem to be concerned more with the sensational than with solid facts. The same criticism can be made of some of the digest magazines.

Recently a digest magazine of large circulation carried articles on a supposed cure for athlete's foot, and on an alleged short cure for syphilis, both of which were roundly condemned by medical experts.

will be available.

If your best friend has a new baby, write, don't wire congratulations. For the Board of War Communications has ruled that wires of congratulations or felicitations are cut for the duration to make way for war business.

Dig out your photograph albums if they contain pictures made during peacetime travels in Europe, Africa, Asia or the Far East for they may be of help to the war effort. The Pictorial Records Division of the Office of Strategic Services needs the following types of pictorial records of fighting fronts of the world. Aerial views, industrial installation, airfields, highways, docks, harbors, coastlines, beaches, canals, rivers. Films, postcards and photos of these may yield helpful information, and the Office of Strategic Service will return them promptly in the same condition received. However, before sending in materials, apply for a questionnaire form by writing: Col. L. E. Norris, Strategic Photos, Box 46, Station G, New York City.

And on the subject of snapshots, camera enthusiasts will find it advisable to slow down on their hobby for the duration. The amount of film available for snapshots has been cut 50 percent below last year's output because of the heavy military demand for films and raw materials. The same order affects the film available to moving picture amateurs. So baby's first year may not be so pictorially recorded by fond parents as in previous years.

One of these days if the matches you buy are about a quarter of an inch shorter, that will mean seven million board feet of wood saved. Shortening of match sticks is being considered by match manufacturers and the WPB to conserve the supply. Meantime, the WPB is asking us to think twice before striking matches wastefully. Every year we use more than 500 billion matches, but more are needed this year because of the increased use by the armed forces and for exports to countries where they are scarce.

Mrs. America's pepper shakers should be filled for a least two years, judging from the present supplies stored in this country. In some sections, however, normal distribution has been upset slightly. But this is because some owners anticipated higher ceiling prices. However, the OPA has assured them that there will be no upward revision of prices.

Saving for a rainy day means care of your umbrella because a WPB order will restrict the materials which go into its manufacture. So remember that silk umbrellas need especially good care for they dry out when not in use. So during a long spell of dry weather, give your silk umbrella a good wetting down occasionally—either under the shower or garden hose—and clean by brushing with a cloth. Oil silk umbrellas can be washed with milk soap and water, rinsed and dried, but handle with care in cold weather for they stiffen and crack easily. At the first sign of a break in the fabric or frame, pay a visit to the umbrella man.

If any member of your family has failed to obtain War Ration Book One—the sugar book—better see that he or she does before the extended deadline, January 15. Not only is this book necessary for obtaining sugar and coffee, it also is needed before War Ration Book Two can be secured early in 1943.

Facts About Tire Inspection

OPA TIRE INSPECTION REGULATIONS

Tire inspection is now compulsory for every registered motor vehicle in the country. Between December 1, 1942 and January 31, 1943 every passenger car and motorcycle owner in the United States must have his tires inspected by an authorized OPA inspector at an official inspection station to approve the continued operation of his vehicle.

You must keep your tire inspection record in your car at all times. The inspector must sign your tire record at every subsequent inspection to approve the continued operation of your car; to permit you another gasoline ration book when your present one expires; to make it possible for you to be considered eligible for other tires or recaps at some future time.

OFFICIAL TIRE INSPECTION STATION

An authorized OPA inspector is at these official inspection stations to approve the continued operation of your car—on the basis of regular and compulsory tire inspection, between December 1, 1942 and January 31, 1943 and thereafter.

RESPONSIBILITY OF INSPECTORS

A. The inspector is to give the vehicle owner efficient and courteous inspection service and assist him in every way possible to keep his tires and tubes in serviceable condition. The inspector is to be regarded by the vehicle owner as a friendly and helpful tire maintenance expert. It is the duty of every inspector to foster such an attitude on the part of the vehicle owner. Vehicles must be maintained in service with the greatest possible conservation of rubber.

B. Any violation of the tire rationing regulations by a tire inspector or a tire inspection station will be dealt with promptly. Careless or dishonest inspection or collusion between an inspector and a motor vehicle owner—two warnings will be cause for withdrawal of the station's official inspection authority.

To assist the inspectors car owners must have the tires of their cars mounted so the serial numbers are visible from the outside and should make comments on any breaks or other bad places in their tires.
