Washington, D. C., Feb. 25.—In the vicinity of Ontario are 11,600 acres of sugar beets and 10,000 acres devoted to onions, potatoes, etc. The ranchers there have requested that a camp of conscientious objectors be located in the vicinity, but the government has denied the request. There are three CCC camps near Ontario which are now controlled by the reclamation bureau, which is prepared to dispose of them. Ontario farmers say these camps would be ideal for housing agricultural labor and if nothing else is in sight they would like to have Mexican laborers imported to cultivate their fields. Last year the farmers had to depend on school children, townspeople and Japanese evacuees but they are wondering about the status of these Japanese and hesitate to plant their full acreage until they know where the labor will come from. Beet sugar labor starts May 1. Farm security administration is working on the problem.

Pending action by war manpower commission, Sen. Rufus Holman has introduced a bill authorizing and directing the secretary of the navy, the secretary of war and the manpower commission, in cooperation with the secretary of agriculture, to conduct a survey to determine whether any men in military or naval forces, formerly engaged in agriculture, lumbering, mining, industrial or other essential civilian occupations, would be more valuable in the conduct of the war if they were separated from active military or naval service and returned to their civilian occupation. If any such man is found in the armed services he shall be given a discharge and deferred from further military or naval service as long as he continues to be employed on the farm, lumbering, etc. While a farm boy or one in mining or lumbering has the privilege of asking for deferment from his local board, the average man dislikes to make such an appeal as he fears he may be regarded as a slacker; and the local boards have not used their best judgment in making such deferments on their own volition.

No one appears to know how large the army is to be, for estimates are constantly changing even when given to congressional committees by high ranking army officers who should know. The army has pushed up to 7,500,000 and next month induction will take place at the rate of 400,000 a month. Then there was announcement the army would be 9,000,000 and now the estimate is for an armed force of 11,500,000. Not all of these men would be sent overseas, for a few million will be retained for defense of this country. One of the highest of army officials informed the senate military committee a few days ago that 13 men are required to keep one soldier fighting in this country; 10 men in Britain, and eight men in Germany. Assuming that 11,500,000 men are in uniform and there are 13 men (and women) behind him at home, this makes 149,500,000 people. The estimate of the continental population of the United States is 131,000,000 or 10,000,000 less than an army of 11,500,000 requires. The 13 behind a fighting man include farmers, shipbuilders, airplane makers, munitions makers, powder workers—in short everyone but civilians in non-essential activities.

League of Oregon Cities has sent an inquiry to the national capital as to how municipalities can contribute to the social security fund so that municipal employees may receive the benefits of social security. They explain that municipalities have difficulty in retaining competent help as the latter resign and enter private industry where they are automatically under SSB. There are other elderly municipal employees who would like to retire but cannot afford to lose their pay checks, states the league. The organization has been advised to take the matter up with the attorney general of Oregon and ascertain whether he can work out a plan, as there are too many complications in drafting a federal law which would blanket the entire nation.

From many Oregon communities, particularly those near Camp White and Camp Adair, owners of dwellings to rent are protesting the use of office of price administration that rents prevailing on March 1, 1942 must not be increased. There is a strong demand for houses in Medford, Albany and other towns but, having carried the property all during the depression, with taxes, insurance and maintenance, the landlords find their rents frozen; they are not permitted to increase the rent to what the dwellings are worth. Even when they have remodeled a house at the request of an army officer and the officer is satisfied, OPA insists the depression rent is all the officer shall pay. OPA says the Portland area is a "bad spot" and that "navy heroes" are held up by grasping landlords. Portland owners, however deny the accusation and they are demanding elimination of the ceiling and the right to evict tenants who are nuisances. At present a tenant cannot be evicted.

VICTORY FOOD HINTS

"ONE POUND OF GROUND ROUND STEAK, PLEASE"

When you go into a Meat Market and say "one pound of ground round, steak, please" the Butcher, before the days of meat shortages, would be sure your family consisted of one or two, but now, if you asked for this amount he could not be sure as to whether it consisted of two or six—since the days of meat stretchers.

These dishes which I am going to give you today are designed to save both meat and time. What could be better in these days when mother is busy doing Red Cross work; or for the busy wife who is engaged in war work; for the bride who has rented a small apartment with a two-burner stove near an army camp; for the career girl who does "light housekeeping" and plans to invite in her friends for an occasional dinner, than a time and money saver like this.

SURPRISE MEAT LOAF
1 cup shortening
1 onion, ground
1 green pepper, chopped
4 stalks celery, chopped
1 lb. round steak, ground
1 raw egg
2 T. chopped parsley
Salt and black pepper
2 hard boiled eggs
1/2 cup water

Melt fat. Add onion, green pepper and celery, and brown. Remove from stove. Add meat and mix thoroughly. Add raw egg and chopped parsley, salt and pepper to taste. Make a meat loaf, folding the meat around the two hard boiled eggs. See that they are directly in the center. Place loaf in the skillet or baking pan, surround with water and cook in a moderate oven (375 degrees) until brown, from 1 to 1 1/2 hours. Slice through the center and serve with hot catsup. Serves 6.

BEEF PAPRIKA WITH NOODLES
3 T. fat
3 onions, chopped
1 pound ground round steak
1 pod garlic, chopped
1 1/2 cups broth, consomme, etc.
3 t. paprika
salt and pepper to taste.
1 T. Worcestershire Sauce
1 T. flour
1/2 cup sour cream

Melt fat in skillet. Add onions and cook until yellow. Add meat, and brown. Add garlic, broth, paprika, salt, pepper and Worcestershire Sauce. Cover and let simmer 20 minutes. Add flour blended to a smooth paste with cream. Pour over boiled noodles, and garnish with chopped parsley. Serves 6.
