

Washington, D. C., May 13--An estimated 10,000 troops will be established at Camp Abbott, a few miles from Bend. The disposal of sewage from such a city (it will be almost as large as Bend) presented a problem which the army engineers have solved to their satisfaction by giving the sewage a treatment and then pouring it into the Deschutes river. This does not please the stockmen and other settlers who depend upon the Deschutes river for their domestic water supply.

Scores of people have signed a petition of protest and forwarded it to Washington, D. C. Some of these petitioners assert that if the sewage from Camp Abbott is permitted to pollute the river there will be an epidemic; that the condition of the stream will be such that a number of farmers now engaged in raising potatoes and other vegetables will be compelled to abandon their ranches. Army engineers reply that there is sufficient flow in the Deschutes to dissipate the sewage and that actually there is 15 times more than is necessary. The engineers also explain that the plan has been approved by the state sanitary engineer of Oregon.

In the area of Bend and Redmond the sewage is disposed of by using the underground caverns of that region. The army engineers do not approve of this plan, explaining that the water in the caverns eventually makes its way into the river.

New fuel rationing regulations have been mimeographed and distributed to congressmen with the notation that they are "secret." The most important feature of these to-be-announced regulations is that whatever the allotment granted, the consumer should fill his oil tank in the summer months. Formula for rationing will be published almost any day now. A simple plan is devised for the small consumers, the people who are chiefly dependent on kerosene. These would be the ruralites who are not in position to illuminate their homes with electricity. The coupon system for fuel cards will be streamlined and generally stripped of red tape and delays.

It is no military secret, however, that next year there will be an actual shortage of fuel oil and gasoline in the Pacific northwest, for by that time the war with the Japanese will be so intense that millions of gallons of high octane for fliers and fuel oil for the destroyers, cruisers, battleships, landing boats, escort vessels, etc., will be diverted from civilians and fuel oil will be scarce.

In the eastern Oregon county the bombers are setting fires with tracer bullets and many thousands of acres have already been burned over. The tracers are as effective as the incendiary bombs and can ignite anything of a combustible character that they hit. The fires have been caused, assert the settlers, by the bombers firing tracers at cow hands and sheepmen to see how close they can come to them and make them jump--all in a spirit of fun. Complaints have reached the war department and instructed the war department given that the planes be numbered to enable settlers to know what bombers are doing the dirty work. For punishment, when the guilty fliers are located, will be the loss of half a month's pay. The bombers are based at Boise, Walla Walla, Spokane and Pendleton, it is alleged.

One reason raised against the location of an aluminum extrusion plant in Oregon is the alleged shortage of labor. The assertion was made that this plant would have to get its workers from the shipyards and other war industries in the state. The division of aluminum and magnesium in war production board has been advised that there are three first class sites for the plant. These localities are Salem, Eugene and The Dalles, where their is ample labor for another war industry. The Oregon senators had a conference with Donald Nelson and William L. Bait, but their arguments made no impression. Government will finance three plants, one in the southwest, one south of the Dakotas and one in the mid-continent area.

Several communities in Oregon are benefiting from war contracts for supplies, shops in various cities cooperating into one organization. One of these combinations will produce thousands of truck bodies this year, and it has already produced about 20,000. A high spot in the combination is held by Baker, which is doing its share of the work faster than the contracts calls for--a bang-up job. Another of the members of the group is located in Eugene, and there are three plants in Portland's metropolitan area. These separate companies pool their resources and make a formidable showing, handling a large contract which none of them could maintain individually. Another group is building parts of Boeing's flying fortress, and another manufacturing valves in demand for synthetic rubber plants, navy ships, etc.

reptile leather in the hands of shoe manufacturers, and tanners. However the amendment makes it possible for this type of leather finished prior to October 16, 1942 to be used, but the reptile leather cannot be combined with other types of leather. Another feature of the amendment prohibits the manufacture of leather bows for shoes.

Good news to the coffee drinkers in Mrs. Americas family is the word from the OPA of some "improvement in the coffee supply situation." This means that for the time being the present ration of one pound per person every five weeks will not be reduced. Stamp number 23 will be good for one pound of coffee from April 26 through May 30.

Here's good market basket news. Cabbage, carrots, lettuce, peas, snap beans, spinach and tomatoes, which have been price controlled under a temporary freeze order, will continue to have to keep costs down. The temporary order was replaced April 22 by a regulation covering sales of certain perishable food commodities. Under the arrangement your retailer will calculate ceiling prices for the seven fresh vegetables by applying uniform markups over his net cost. And that's further protection to your household budget.

Although many gardening tools are being simplified and standardized to save critical materials and facilities, there should be plenty of equipment on hand for victory gardeners. Lawn mowers, of course, are not being made, but repair parts are available to keep the existing supply in good shape. Some reclaimed rubber has been permitted for new garden hose and if you need garden hose for your victory gardens, it should be available in a local store.

"Stay in your own backyard" whether you are a victory gardener or not, might well be the theme for Mrs. America's family, the Office of Defense Transportation advises, in pointing out that troop movements, furlough travel and war business trips keep railroads and buses jammed. But if families must travel at all on vacations, the ODT suggests scheduling train or bus trips at off season times and staying near home. The ODT is urging that week end trips be scratched off the list entirely. This suggestion is to leave room for service men since short three day army passes are reserved for week ends to prohibit interference with training.

If you are about to buy or sell a used mechanical refrigerator, better consult the OPA dollars and cents prices on these models. Under a revision to the regulation setting prices on used refrigerators, sales by individual householders must be sold at the same maximum prices charged by dealers.

Incidentally rental fees on this equipment also are price controlled. Information may be obtained at district OPA offices regarding legal maximum ceilings.
It isn't because gold itself is needed for war production as a critical material that the War Production Board has restricted large manufacturers of jewelry in their use of this precious metal. The amount of gold allowed for jewelry by the large manufacturers has been cut to 75 percent of their 1941 use by the WPB so that more manpower and facilities can be turned over to war production. Since small jewelry manufacturers, generally are not equipped for conversion, they are exempted from this order.
