WELFARE MEETING

There was a welfare meeting at 1 o'clock, called expressly for officers in the nine surrounding cities, Nyssa, Ontario, and Weiser included. Ray C. Lewis of Nyssa is stake chairman.

SECOND SESSION

The second session of the conference was started at 2:30 under the direction of Wilford O. Peterson, with the congregation singing "Praise to the Man Who Comes with Jehovah". After Stake Clerk Lloyd Lewis of Nyssa presented the names of the general authorities, as they are present constituted, to the audience, and all names were unanimously sustained, the Ontario ward choir sang, "Oh Divine Redeemer". Among those released were Scott B. Brown, stake patriarch, who moved to Boise. Reports showed that there are 15 home missionaries and three missionaries out in distant fields.

Dorothy Child of Nyssa was appointed as stake mission secretary. President Fife was the first speaker. He told of faith promoting experiences, due to the power of the priesthood.

The next speaker was Erma Chadwick, who gave a fine thought in, "Rent for the position one holds, is service, in that position. Let us all keep our rent paid." Dorothy Gilcrest of Ontario, sang a solo.

Apostle Merrill, speaking at the afternoon session, said, "To know that God lives, and that this is His work, is the most important knowledge that anyone can acquire". He said, "The Book of Mormon is the most wonderful book in print today, BECAUSE, it is a physical evidence, that Joseph Smith is a prophet of God." For unbelievers he said: "If you will read it through earnestly, with a prayer in your heart, and ask God if it is true, He will reveal it unto you."

He said: "A general weakness in the church today is criticizing the general authorities. In doing so, it is yielding to the devil. The devil is a spirit brother, here on earth in the form of a man, only he is in the spirit body," being cast out of heaven.

Overflowing crowds also attended this session.
