PRESSURE COOKERS "UNRAT-IONED"

Pressure cookers have been removed from rationing, and now may be purchased from any dealer without restriction. Other changes in the rationing program made this week have eliminated feed grinders and crushers from the list of rationed equipment.

COPPER WIRE FOR FARMS

More than 11,000 pounds of copper wire was allocated to Oregon farmers during the last three months to aid in increasing farm production. For the first three months of 1944, 14,000 pounds of wire will be available for distribution through county AAA committees.

EFFICIENT FEEDING URGED

In spite of record-sized livestock and poultry numbers, U.S. farmers can make the light feed supplies in prospect for 1944 produce the goals established for meat and other livestock products, says the war food administration. Efficient feeding is the answer to the problem, and a national average saving of 10 per cent would do the trick.

WFA ADVOCATES CLOSE CULLING OF DAIRY, MEAT AND POULTRY STOCK

"Tailoring" rations to meet needs of growing and producing animals and birds, stoppage of waste through rodents, inefficient feeding roughs and self-feeders, harvesting feed in the field with livestock and adequate provision for salt and water. In addition, good pastures and careful use will stretch feed supplies. In Oregon, favorable fall weather has made possible the maximum use of pastures, saving food supplies and shortening the feeding season.

ELECTRIC HOT WATER HEATERS FOR DAIRIES

The Fowler Manufacturing company of Portland, Oregon has been given permission to manufacture 500 electric water heaters for dairies and other users. Sales to dairies will be on the basis of certification by the county AAA committee. Any dairy farmer in need of this equipment should immediately contact the county AAA office at Ontario.

WAVES RECRUITER IN BAKER AREA

Recruiting Specialist Joan Ramskill of the WAVES will be in the Baker area from January 10 to January 15, inclusive, to assist young women in learning about their opportunities in the WAVES, reports Recruiting Specialist Rives Waller, in charge of the U. S. Navy recruiting activity, including WAVES applications, in the Baker area.

Recruiting Specialist Ramskill will be on duty at the U. S. navy recruiting sub-station in the post office building in Ontario Thursday, January 13. Young women from this area who wish to talk to her about the WAVES are requested to write her for an appointment at Baker or Ontario, or call on her to set the time.

For the special convenience of young women who work through the day and find it inconvenient to schedule interviews during the business hours, night interviews are available. These can be arranged by writing Recruiting Specialist Ramskill or Recruiting Specialist Waller at the Baker address. Other visits to cities near Baker will be made by the recruiting specialist on which announcement will be made.

Recent relaxation of the physical requirements for WAVES has opened this service to hundreds of additional women. Young women may now enlist in the WAVES if their vision is corrected to 20-20. They need only be 59 inches tall. Reduction in weight and other requirements have practically eliminated the physical test as a barrier for average young women in normal health.

Wives of navy enlisted men can now join the WAVES, according to a recent ruling by the bureau of naval personnel.

Age limits are from 20 to 36 years. The only other requirements are that the applicants have no dependents under 18 years, that they be citizens of the United States, and that they have at least two years of high school.

Many new opportunities have been opened for WAVES with the greater use of WAVES in more phases of naval activity. WAVES have proved to be so successful and efficient in them.

RAIL CROSSING CRASHES CLIMB

Omaha, Neb., Jan. 6.—"Drivers of trucks and automobiles must give heed to railroad crossing signals and must stop, look and listen before starting over crossings, or some day we will have a real catastrophe," declared W. M. Jeffers president of the Union Pacific railroad in discussing the increasing number of such accidents in the past few weeks.

"Drivers must remember that we are handling thousands of service men and women on these trains. And besides these, there are many solid trains of war materials and high explosives. We cannot afford to have these risks of serious injuries and we must not have delays in moving war materials."

At Silver Creek, Neb., on December 16, a truck and trailer drove directly in front of a fast mail and express train, derailing the train, killing an old and trusted engineer, and tying up the main line for a number of hours. The crossing was protected with modern lighted wig-wag signals.

At Schuyler, Neb., at 3:08 A. M. on Christmas Day two young men drove an automobile directly in front of the steamlined "City of Denver," both men seriously injured and the train was damaged and delayed. This crossing was protected with modern lighted wig-wag signals.

At Edwardsville, Kan., at 12:50 A.M., December 26, a 1936 model auto loaded with six adults and three children was driven directly on the crossing tracks in the face of an oncoming passenger train. The car stalled on the crossing and one adult and one child were killed. The others were injured.

Pfc. Acel V. Brown has completed training and has graduated from the school of the army air forces training command at Chanute field, Illinois. While attending the school he received instruction in the power plant course and in various technical operations vital to the maintenance of the country's fighting planes.

Pfc. Edward Ostrom, who spent Christmas day "somewhere in Australia," has written to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Ostrom, stating that "I am having a hard time convincing myself that it is really Christmas. It is just too darn hot for Christmas. I don't think I'd get used to it if I spent the rest of my life over here. Well, I hope I get to see a white one next year. If I remember right, I think I said that last Christmas, too. Didn't have any packages to open today. They all arrived early and I couldn't wait until now to open them. We had a really swell dinner today, though. That was the best meal we have had in ages. All of our food on the whole is pretty good. "I went into town yesterday as I figured there would be more doing than there would be today. I went to see a show in the afternoon. It was the coolest place I could find. In the evening I went to the city park, where they were having a Christmas program. A few short speeches by some of the big shots and then a few carols.

"They have a funny way of trying to hold Christmas buying down over here since the war has been on. There is a regulation against advertising about Christmas or Santa Claus or anything like that. I don't know whether it works or not."
