RUSSIA GETTING TOUCHY

Flushed with victories, the red bear is feeling his oats, getting chesty and reacting resentfully at anyone who presumes to discuss the righteousness of his doings and intentions.

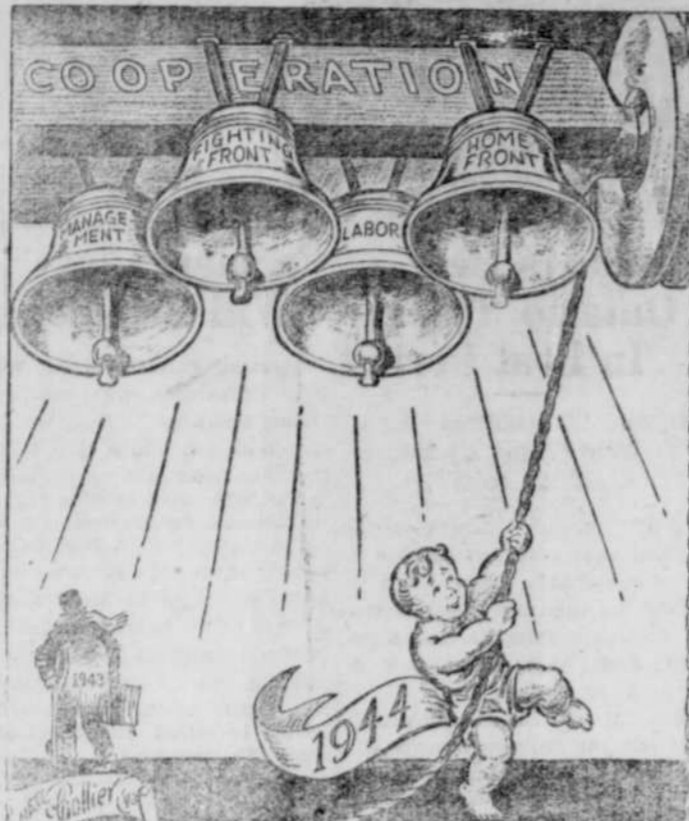

The Moscow Pravda, organ of the Soviet government, bitterly assailed Wendell Wilkie, one of the best friends Russia has in this country, for his New York Times article on Russia's relations with Poland, in which Wilkie pointed out the rights of the latter country.

Eddy Gilmore, Associated Press writer in Moscow, wrote later that the Russians consider their western borders no more business of Americans than California's borders are to Russia, and that they regard as an unfriendly act any discussion of the subject here.

The obvious answer is that California's borders would be Russia's business if we tried to extend them into Siberia and that Russia's western borders are the business of any country that might be involved in a future war if they were extended in such manner as to leave a festering sore afterward.

Russia ought to get wise to the fact that there aren't any private or local boundary disputes any more. Look at what the Polish corridor and the Sudeten finally meant to the United States thousands of miles away. Our own self-interest, aside from moral considerations, dictates that we should make every effort to secure a decent and therefore a lasting boundary settlement after this war.—Idaho Free Press.

government to provide care for tubercular and insane patients who are wards of the government, Attorney General George Neuner has ruled for the state board of health. The money which the government would pay the state for such care would be given to the state institutions providing the care.

TAX BLANKS MAILED

The state tax commission this week mailed 400,000 income tax blanks to income tax payers in Oregon, 375,000 to individuals, 5,000 to corporations and 20,000 to partnership firms. They were sorted, sacked and addressed by commission employees. Corporation have to April 1 to file while individuals have to April 15th.

CAPITAL SHORTS

The death of former state treasurer Jefferson Myers leaves U. S. Senator Rufus Holman as the only living ex-treasurer of Oregon. The state highway commission will meet in Portland Jan. 11. The state board of control approved the purchase this week of 3224 acres of depleted lands for $3224. Only 195,000 of Oregon's 435,000 motor vehicle owners have registered their cars for this year. There is a shortage of optometrists as well as of doctors. It was stated at the annual meeting of the optometry board, Governor Snell has appointed Glen S. Macy, and W. L. Finley Jr., to year terms on the state board of funeral directors and embalmers.

Perhaps you've heard that some types of shoes are to be sold ration free during a certain period. Here are the details. Between January 17 and 29th, shoe dealers will be allowed to sell a certain percentage of their stocks of women's shoes at $3.00 or less a pair without requiring a ration stamp. This will cover largely novelty types which have not moved from dealers' stocks because of a general reluctance by women to spend precious shoe stamps for them.

Here's news regarding children's clothing. The War Production Board will see that producers of infants' and children's apparel get cotton fabrics and worsted and cotton yarns for making hosiery and suits, boys shirts and pants. The WPB said that emphasis would be placed on turning out low cost goods of durable quality. These supplies are not expected to reach retail stores until February and March.

None of the 50,000 bathtubs for which the WPB has approved production with critical materials will be available for purchase by Mrs. America. All of those produced will be released for war housing and other construction projects with authorized preference ratings. No bathtubs have been turned out since June, 1942. Meantime, the principal producing plants have been engaged in war work.

And while on the subject of household equipment, homemakers can't give stoves too much care these days. They should be kept clean and free from rust, and minor repairs should be made before they get worse. It's up to the householders with usable stoves to keep them in the best working order so that the few new stoves available can be rationed to people who are without. These of course, get first call on stove rationing certificates.

HOLDING OF HOGS HELD ADVISABLE

Farmers with feeder pigs on hand already weighing around 100 pounds will probably make more money by feeding them out even at the present unfavorable grain-hog price ratio than by liquidating at present feeder prices, says H. A. Lindgren, extension livestock specialist at Oregon State college.

Present price of feeder hogs is approximately $9.50 to $10 on the farm. Protein supplements are high priced and difficult to obtain. More grain is required per pound of gain if protein supplements are not used, Lindgren points out. A farmer who has half-grown feeder hogs on hand can figure that it will take from five to six pounds of grain to put on a pound of gain. If protein supplements are not available, compared with four to four and a half pounds with supplements.

If a 100-pound hog were sold at present prices it would bring approximately $10. About 500 pounds of grain would be required to increase the weight of this 100-pound feeder to a 200-pound market hog, when it would be worth, at present prices, approximately $27 on the farm, or an increase of $17. If grain can be had at $50 per ton the cost of feed for this gain would be $12.50, as compared with the increased value of $17. These figures apply only to hogs ready to go into the fattening pen and are not applicable to hogs raised from the weaner stage.

Lindgren also calls attention to the possibility of making use of waste by-products such as cull fruits or vegetables, which have a definite value when combined with grain, though it does not pay to feed these alone. All such products are best fed in the raw state, with the exception of potatoes, which are improved by cooking. Use of such by-products will replace a portion of the grain otherwise required.

Mrs. Carlson's Washdays Aren't What They Used to Be!

"There's no time now to spend the whole day washing and ironing clothes," Mrs. Carlson says. "I don't know what I'd do without my electric home laundry servants' speedy help... there'd never be time to help the war effort if they weren't on the job."

Right, Mrs. Carlson... and it's important for every homemaker to KEEP those electric servants on the job by keeping them in good repair. No more electric appliances are being made now because the materials in them are going into tanks and planes and guns these days. Check your electric servants carefully. You'll find most repairs are minor—the kind you can make yourself.

GOVERNOR BUSY

Governor Earl Snell began the new year by doing a full day's work on New Year's Day at his offices in the capitol. There is no apparent reason why there should be such a flood of business in the executive department at this time of year but it is definitely overflowing the gubernatorial desks.

The governor's plan to segregate the youthful convicts from old timers who are schooled in crime was put in operation this week. Within the next six months old age pensions will reach the goal called for in the governor's message. They were $34 a month when he was inaugurated and will be $38 by July of this year the governor predicts. The state war veterans service co-

Mrs. America Meets The War

The family sugar bowl will remain the same since the OPA will allow consumers five pounds of sugar for another two and a half months. The new sugar stamps, number 30 in War Ration Book Four, will become valid on January 16 to last until the end of March. Meantime, Stamp No. 29, which is good for five pounds of sugar, will end its two and a half months period on January 15.

Mrs. America is reaping the benefit of the fairly high level of supplies of canned green, or wax beans for January. And with the exception of frozen corn, peas and lima beans, all frozen vegetables may be bought this month without

To the People of this Community - THINK IT OVER

How about doing a little cold turkey thinking after you lay aside this newspaper tonight? You've got a good job. The chances are there is someone in your family, perhaps two or three, working. Your son or your brother—may be away at war.

This war must end sometime. Your whole family, your neighbors, are praying it ends soon and those fighting boys of yours will come home safely.

But will you be ready for whatever happens when peace comes? Will you have something laid away? We're all hoping there'll be jobs aplenty, jobs which mean making something for somebody's happiness and not for somebody's sorrow. That's where your War Bonds come into the picture. Sure, Americans own billions of dollars of War Bonds now, and before this 4th War Loan ends they will have put away billions more. But how about you? You're the one that counts. The bigger the pile of War Bonds you have when peace comes, the bigger chance you'll have to slip right into the post-war world you're dreaming about tonight. So "Let's All Back the Attack."
