PRESIDENT MAKES MISTAKE

President Roosevelt, political champion of the world, has made a mistake—he feinted and side-swiped his opponent in the political ring when he should have delivered a straight punch. By accusing Thomas Dewey of "fraud" and "falsehood", the president aroused the former prosecutor's ire and now Governor Dewey is delivering speeches with a punch. Dewey started his campaign by delivering addresses that had been written and re-written and polished and re-polished by several writers and then given the finishing touches by the candidate himself, but when he heard the charge of falsehood, he tore up the seventh of a series of campaign talks and wrote another one "from scratch". That was the speech he delivered at Oklahoma City with such fervor that national republican committeemen exulted over prospects of the youthful candidate in his campaign against a fourth term.

The change of speech-writing technique on the part of the republicans, prompted by the charge hurled by the president, should improve the G.O.P. chances.

THE ARNHEM SETBACK

The terrible beating taken by British paratroopers at Arnhem, Holland, tells its own bloody story of the limitations of this form of warfare when the enemy is set to meet it. Paratroopers have won some quick, spectacular triumphs in this war, in the low countries in 1940, in Russia, in Sicily and in Normandy. But like the blitzkrieg, there is a defense, which is to surround and annihilate the attackers who boldly jump down in the midst of their foes. Probably those intrepid British killed a good many more Germans than they lost themselves, and they forced a concentration of Germans against them that might have done a lot of damage somewhere else. They added another chapter in British annals destined to live as long as the light brigade and Dunkirk.

Nevertheless they had to give up the position they had taken and they lost most of their numbers. The operation wasn't a success and wouldn't have been undertaken had the Allied command known what was going to happen. The Arnhem fight will probably exercise a restraining influence on the use of these troops until the Germans are a lot more demoralized than they are yet. —Idaho Free-Press

Dewey Meeting Vital Questions

Vale, Oct. 5--"It is my belief that Governor Dewey is meeting some very important issues in a very direct and forthright manner," Charles W. Swan, Malheur county republican central committee chairman, said upon his return from Portland where he listened to Dewey's speech and later met the Republican presidential candidate and Mrs. Dewey at an informal reception at the Multnomah hotel.

He had an opportunity to observe Governor Dewey very carefully, Mr. Swan said, both during the broadcast, where he was fortunate to have a seat close to the speaker, and later at the reception. "I was impressed with the sincerity of the man and with his vigor and vitality. He was appearing under a handicap, having been in a train wreck that day, judging from statements made by some of the radio men whose equipment had been smashed, was more serious than the papers led us to believe. Governor Dewey, nevertheless, was calm and alert, showing no evidence of the trying day he had been through. I don't believe I have ever seen a man with eyes as bright and clear as his. He has a certain formality and reserve about him but when he smiles, any feeling of distance is quickly dispelled. Mrs. Dewey is a charming woman, shy, but showing evidence of a keen mind." The secret service men that surround all presidential candidates very much in evidence wherever Dewey went, Mr. Swan said, and added that he was impressed also, by the press following which included 80 reporters of national newspapers and magazines.

As a sidelight, the local G. O. P. chairman said he was surprised to find that some of the representatives of the large New York dailies were quite familiar with Malheur county; one in particular whom he met, when told Swan was from Vale, said he had heard a lot about this area and asked about the projects here, the Vale-Oregon and Owyhee. He also showed a thorough knowledge of the local agriculture and other industries of this section.

knowledge of the local agriculture and other industries of this section.

Mr. Swan's description of the mechanical facilities necessary for national broadcasting of an event of that kind gave an inkling of the vast array of machinery that is becoming more and more a part of the everyday business of living. In addition to the usual bank of microphones in front of the speaker, he said, a corps of engineers were in charge of the control instruments in a room at one side. A stop watch was held at precisely eight o'clock. Through a former school friend, Quentin Cox of KGW, Mr. Swan met a number of the radio men among them, Ted Williams, chief engineer for the National Broadcasting company.

SHOTGUN SHELLS PRICE CONTROLLED

Definite attempts to "gouge" the public by exorbitant charges for shotgun shells have been reported to the district OPA price division for investigation, Ralph Westering, price specialist, revealed today.

Westering said that some purchasers have paid as high as $5 for a box of 25 twelve-gauge shotgun shells which should have cost no more than the ceiling price of $1.38 a box, or 7c per shell. The 30-36 caliber sells for $2.15 a box of 25, or 11c a shell and the 30-30 caliber sells for $1.50 a box, or 9c a shell. Some persons have been getting as high as $1 a shell for these two calibers, Westering indicated.

1 Minute Sermon

(The Light Was Out)

Let your loins be girded about and your lights burning-Lk. 12:35.

It was the zero hour in Egypt. Men were taut and every sense strangled and ready. They were ready for the signal with staff in hand and shoes on their feet eating the pasover lamb while the death angel was winging his way over the land--and woe to those unready! Surely it was not a time of make-believe nor feigning on the alert--with these people it was a matter of life or death! Today in the spiritual realm of the matters of men it is the zero hour as it was that day in Egypt long ago. Surely the Lord was faithful in warning us in His Word of these times that are at the door--unrest in the heavens and distress on earth, perplexities of nations, deceiving and being deceived, unstability politically, socially and religiously. Surely if ever it is a time for God's people to be lifting up their heads in readiness as men that wait for their Lord when he shall return from the wedding. Far too many are the watchmen likened unto that one called into court in the case of a serious train accident in which many were killed and wounded.

"Were you on guard with your lantern?" He was asked. "Yes sir!" was the answer. "Did you see the passenger coming and did you wave your lantern?" and again the answer was "Yes sir!" That watchman was trembling for he feared the question that he felt was coming "Did you ever come?" "Did you have it lighted?" for then he would have had to say "No." Many are making a grand pretense in being ready and waving their lanterns but their lights have gone out. "Certainly I am a Christian, do you think I'm a heathen?" is their incensed reply and they go on waving a dead lantern. My friend have you inspected your lantern lately and are you sure their is enough oil in it? Is the wick well trimmed? The zero hour is near and if you are running low on oil remember God's Alter is the only place where you can contact Christ Jesus and be renewed in Spirit, soul and body.

PLEASE DON'T FORGET About My Eyes!

"I KNOW you older folks are busier than you ever were before. But I've only got the one pair of eyes—and if you don't help me take care of them, you and I may both regret it some day."

It's a fact that many people are too busy—and too worried to take the simple precautions that help conserve precious eyesight. Here are four easy rules anyone can follow.

- 1 Do all reading, studying, sewing, or game-playing close to a good light source, preferably a modern reading lamp.
- 2 Avoid glare from bare bulbs. Don't sit facing the light. Glare strains eyes.
- 3 Avoid shadows. Make sure you have good light directly on your book or work. Shadows strain eyes.
- 4 Have eyes examined regularly. If eyes are defective, vision can be greatly helped with proper glasses.

When the war is over we are all going to have Better Sight for Better Sight. In the meantime, let's conserve both eyesight and light. Take care of your eyes, but don't waste light.
