STARTER SOLUTION IS GARDEN HELPER

Victory gardeners are likely to have more success with their tomatoes, cabbage, lettuce, peppers and other transplants if they use a "starter" or "booster" solution when transplanting, according to County Agent R. E. Brooke. This "starter" solution, which in plain words is just liquid fertilizer, is made by mixing one tablespoon of victory garden fertilizer (6-10-4) in one gallon of water, or use 4-12-4 or similar fertilizer formula. Sulphate of ammonia, nitrate of soda or ammoniated phosphate may be substituted for victory garden fertilizer. Exact measurements is strongly recommended. Mr. Brooke cautions against using more than one tablespoon to a gallon of water since plants may be injured or killed by a stronger mixture. The solution of one tablespoonful of fertilizer to a gallon of water is effective and safe, he explained, if the solution is kept well mixed during application. Plants given a "starter" solution usually will start growing immediately without an apparent setback from transplanting. O. T. McWhorter, O. S. C. extension horticulturist reports. This treatment is especially valuable for tomato plants. About a pint of the liquid fertilizer poured about each plant when it is set out in the garden is recommended. The transplants may be repeated in 10 days with good results if the solution is not made stronger than recommended. These liquid fertilizers are valuable in the home garden all through the season also for keeping leafy plants such as lettuce, cabbage and chard growing. Row plants may be fertilized every 10 days or so by pouring a gallon at the juncture of the plant with the soil for each six or eight feet of row.

Navy dive bombers--about to strike! In each rear cockpit rides a radio gunner--trusted protector of his pilot and plane. His skill with radio and detection devices permits his pilot to concentrate on flying the plane and blasting the objective. His marksmanship makes enemy planes scarcer, brings V-Day nearer.

Until that day comes, the major job of the Western Electric Company, peacetime manufacturer of telephone equipment, will be making huge quantities of radio and detection devices. If you are waiting for a telephone you can understand why the backed up requirements of the Bell Telephone System for telephones, wires, cable, switchboards, etc., will have to wait.

1 long-3 short Along the Union Pacific main line--between stations--a signal flashes red. The train slackens speed and stops. The engineer grabs the whistle cord... one long and three short blasts. That's a signal to the flagman. It is his duty to give adequate warning to any train following. To do so, he walks a sufficient distance to the rear to insure full protection. This is one of the many precautionary measures taken by Union Pacific--and other railroads--to protect passengers and freight shipments. Safe transportation becomes increasingly important in wartime. Trainloads of troops and essential materials are constantly on the move over Union Pacific's Strategic Middle Route uniting the East with the Pacific Coast. Just as the flagman protects his train, so is it the job of all Americans to provide for future security by buying bonds and saving them. Thus we can help stabilize industry and encourage the American trait of individual enterprise and initiative. * Listen to "OUR AMERICA" radio program on Mutual nationwide network every Sunday afternoon.
