"STEAM IT—SERVE IT"

After a main course of vegetables and meat, the family looks around for a "good" dessert to finish the meal. Now, if you have cooked your meal in your economy cooker, you can cook this dessert at the same time. If you have not, you can steam it in your cooker at a very low cost.

Steam this pudding and add variation to your meals.

STEAMED CHOCOLATE NUT PUDDING
1 cup sifted cake flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup chopped nuts
2 tablespoon shortening
1/2 cup sugar
1 egg
2 squares unsweetened chocolate, melted
1 teaspoon vanilla
1/2 cup milk
Sift flour, baking powder and salt together. Cream shortening, add sugar gradually and cream together; then add egg and beat thoroughly. Stir in chocolate and vanilla. Add flour alternately with milk, beating until smooth, after each addition. Pour into greased pudding pan. Place on rack in economy cooker or kettle. Pour about 1 inch of water in bottom of cooker. For a cooker meal, adjust rack above other foods. Cover and turn to HIGH until steaming, then to THIRD and steam 1 1/4 hours. Serve with cream, whipped cream or ice cream. (Serves 6.)

DDT EFFECTIVE IN DESTROYING PESTS

Preliminary tests with DDT in oil sprays water emulsions, water-dispersible powders, and in dusts, have shown this chemical as having great promise in the field of insects affecting man's habitation, his person and his livestock against body lice, bedbugs, flies of several species, and mosquitoes. DDT has already become an important weapon in their control, according to information received by the U. S. Department of Agriculture through Al Thompson and son.

Although the proper dilutions of DDT are yet to be determined for use against lice affecting livestock, clothes moths, carpet beetles, silver fish, and others, sufficient data have been accumulated to suggest its value for use against these insects.

Conflicting reports have been received on its efficacy against certain species of ants, cockroaches, spiders, and ticks. Against the screwworm, the heel fly or cattle grub, the chigger, and the poultry mite, DDT offers little or no measure of protection.

No doubt, formulas containing a wettable DDT powder will have greatest appeal because these combinations can be readily mixed with water, have no odor, are harmless when applied to the skin of man or the coats of animals, and present no fire hazard.

A residue left by a spray containing DDT is probably more effective against house or stable flies than any other treatment. On ceilings and walls of homes and barns where flies rest a deposit of this new insecticide remains effective against flies for several weeks or months. A 5 per cent DDT suspension made of wettable DDT powder and water may be applied as a spray to any surface where flies are observed to rest, such as walls and doors, windows and rest on the walls and screens, especially at night. When these places have received a residual treatment of DDT the flies die in 1 to 3 hours.

In preparing the spray, make a paste of wettable DDT powder and water and then add sufficient water to give the desired concentration (2.5 pounds of 50 per cent water-dispersible DDT in 3 gallons of water). Early in the fly season a 5 per cent suspension is desirable. During the late summer or early fall one man can use a 2 1/2 per cent DDT suspension with excellent results for a couple of months or longer.

The use of kerosene solution (7 ounces of technical DDT dissolved in 1 gallon) has also been found very effective for this purpose, but when used at this recommended dosage may become a fire hazard.

In applying this spray it is important to use a coarse or wet spray so that as much of the material as possible will remain on the surface treated. When the water or oil evaporates the DDT remains and acts as a residual insecticide that kills flies and other insects by contact. A knapsack sprayer or powder sprayer with nozzles adjusted for large droplets is recommended. In small rooms a hand sprayer can be used. The dosage rate should be about 1 quart of spray to 250 square feet of surface. The water spray will leave a light visible residue on the sprayed surface, which might be objectionable in homes.
