People with "Know How" are the key to your Good Electric Service

The irreplaceable element that makes your electric service good is — PEOPLE. People with the skill that comes with many years of experience. People with a sense of duty, so keen it sends them out in the worst eastern Oregon storms to repair service.

In Malheur County, the foundation stone of good electric service is Idaho Power people. Many of them have spent their lifetime in their jobs. They can tell you that providing electric service is no job for an amateur to handle—that it takes a lot of experience to learn it fully.
