AGAIN WE SHOULD DEDICATE OURSELVES

On Memorial day of 1946 we pay honor to the dead of another war, without having attained the ideals for which the men of the last two great conflicts fought and died.

The United States seems to have developed a habit of winning wars in the physical sense but it never wins a spiritual victory. We defeat our enemies on the field of battle, but not in their hearts. They continue to live with their same old hates and prejudices.

It is wonderful to forever be threshing someone or some nation if neither one learns anything from the experience. We have been whipping them, feeding them and turning them loose to build for another war and we are doing the same thing again.

We should pay honor to the dead because they have done their part, but more especially we should re-dedicate ourselves to the ideals that carried our armies to victory.

A world that is powerful enough to conduct two wars involving practically every nation on earth is strong enough to carry the burden of peace if it can develop sufficient spiritual fortitude.

A world-wide observance of Memorial day, giving the people a means of expression, might accomplish more than the big three and other UNO members have thus far been able to attain.

AMALGAMATED BUYS BEECHCRAFT PLANE

The Amalgamated Sugar company with general offices in Ogden and factories in Utah, Idaho and eastern Oregon, has placed in use for supervisory personnel a twin motored D-18-S Beechcraft, according to H. A. Benning, president.

The plane has accommodations for five passengers and its maximum speed of 225 miles per hour brings within two hours flying time from Ogden the company's most distant sugar factory at Nyssa, Oregon, 425 miles away. The same trip requires 8 to 10 hours by rail or automobile.

Mr. Benning points out that the plane is a valuable asset and time saving medium and has already proved its utility in enabling officials of the concern to transact business and purchase equipment in various parts of the country.

The company now has under cultivation 97,000 acres of sugar beets as compared to 64,000 acres in 1945 and improvement programs are under way at several of the plants and beet receiving stations in preparation for the processing campaign scheduled in late September.

The plane is fully equipped with all modern safety devices and a two way radio, is piloted by Dan Decker, formerly of Phoenix, Arizona, who also serves as its mechanic. It is housed in a special hangar owned by the company at the Ogden municipal airport.

WIDE PUBLICITY IS GIVEN NYSSA SCHOOL

A picture showing a display of trophies exhibited at the Nyssa grade school in March and a description of the exhibit appeared in the May issue of Oregon Education Journal giving Nyssa statewide recognition.

The article, written by C. C. Harvey, local teacher, stated in part that "From the point of view of the students, the project was very valuable. Although the educational results of the exhibit cannot be measured in terms of formal tests and ratings, it is obvious that it resulted in learning which left more lasting impressions on students than assigned class work.

"Seldom had a day passed during the term without some student bringing an object of interest-borrowed from a friend or relative and connected with the war to school to show classmates. Then the suggestion was made that all these objects should be brought at one time and placed on exhibition for a few days to give students and their parents an opportunity to see them. The idea was adopted by the faculty of the grades and junior high and a committee was named to work with the teachers in helping to plan and supervise the display.

"The exhibit became a cooperative project of the entire school, with all home-rooms taking part. The library was turned into a museum for the display of the materials."

GRASSHOPPERS BAD IN AROCK SECTION

Grasshopper infestation in the Arock community threatens to be the worst in several years, according to Leeds Bailey, assistant county agent, who made a survey of the area last week. Visits to a number of egg beds disclosed that the hoppers had not started their migration onto the crop land in great numbers.

Young grasshoppers eat poisoned bait more readily than do the adults and are usually more concentrated in area. Best results with bait have been obtained by poisoning as soon as the young hoppers appear in number and before they migrate, Bailey said.

SEED INSPECTION SHOULD BE DONE

Now is the time for seedlings inspections on spring plantings of certified red clover, ladino clover, and alfalfa, reports Leeds Bailey, assistant county agent. Certification rules require that an inspection be made at the time the crop is planted or while it is still in the seedling stage. Some farmers have missed the certification benefits because they were unaware of the requirements. In addition to the seedling inspections, fields must receive field inspections each year that seed is certified, Bailey added.
