The whole hope of human progress is suspended on the ever-growing influence of the Bible—William H. Seward.

PROSPERITY IN 1947 DEPENDENT ON LABOR SITUATION

With possibility of reaching capacity peacetime production for the first time since 1941, this country faces 1947 with a hope for one of the most prosperous years in history.

A backlog of buying power, curbed for five years, and a large supply of capital goods and merchandise will make prosperity inevitable unless—

Labor strife reduces employment and production.

Demand of labor leaders for another 25 per cent increase in wages will surely cause a decided upward swing in prices and they are as high now as they should be permitted to go. An additional increase in prices will reduce buying and slow down the wheels of production.

If labor leaders will restrain their greed for more money and power and "hold their heads" as industry and the general public have done for the last six months, we can have some assurance that we will have prosperity in 1947. Industrial leaders must also realize that they should make concessions in the way of profits in order to help get the nation back on a strong economic footing. If big and little industries are forced to pay back wages for the last several years under the portal-to-portal law they will suffer financial losses that will tie another snarl in the economic structure. As a result of all the "ifs", it appears from this angle that the entire story of our economic life during the next year will be based on whether labor and industry iron out their differences or whether they continue to pull in opposite directions in an effort to feather their own nests in total disregard of the interests of the country.
