

The Happy Farmer

By Clarence Niccum

HAPPY

3A

Boy is this a busy time? Never took time to write last week and sure have no time to spare now. We should complain of so much to do on account of Heaven sending us such a bountiful harvest. The children of Israel complained continually after being led away from slavery in Egypt. And us, we can find plenty of good reasons for to complain. Principally the labor problem. If Heaven didn't bless us so bountifully we would not have a truck, tractor, combine, or what not to break down nor a tomato, potato, grain or hay crop to get harvested. If He gets too tired of listening to our complaining just think how easy it would be for Him with a stroke of his mighty hand to wipe out any one of our great prosperous worries. A little flame could soon wipe out my worry of getting a combine. Lots of rain would stop my complaining about hay help and so on down our line of trouble.

Let us look up occasionally and give thanks then bow our necks and go through.

P.S.—Sorry folks but must go. The fence is haywire and the pig is out, the hay is down and must be raked, the water hasn't been looked after for ages and the crop is getting dry, got to make a couple of new ditches before can get water on new seedling in the stubble, got to fix the grainery before the combine gets here for the rest of the grain and got to fix breakfast for myself and two boys right now. By now.

Oh for a cook.
