CO-OPERATION WINS

"I never thought they could do it", was a common expression following the successful completion of the district memorial hospital financial campaign, but the speakers realized that co-operation had turned the trick.

Under the leadership of Louis D. Barr of Oakland, California, and Frank Morgan, Arvil Child and Bernard Frost of Nyssa, less than 100 workers raised $260,649 in a concentrated drive that developed the greatest demonstration of co-operation ever shown in this community. The speed and effectiveness of the campaign has attracted the admiration of people all over the northwest. They were surprised that such a small town could raise so much money. Of course, they do not realize the size and importance of the surrounding area, which has more population than the city itself. The campaign has been a means of welding together more closely than ever before the city and rural people, as well as the city folk themselves.

The hospital will be a continuing means of drawing the people closer together, because it will be through the co-operation of all elements that the hospital will be really successful. Leaders have said that the hospital work has just started, now that the money has been raised. With this fact in view, men's and women's auxiliaries have already been organized to help with the operation of the hospital.

The hospital will be the medical center of this section for general hospitalization and the polio treatment center of eastern Oregon and parts of southwestern Idaho. The hospital, which will be the most modern on the west coast, will be the first approved under the new state law.

From the tiny seed planted a few years ago by the Nyssa Lions club will grow a great humanitarian institution that will care for the poor as well as the rich.

TOBLER'S TO START GROWING CONTEST

A calf growing contest, to determine which dairyman in the Nyssa area can grow calves the fastest, has been announced by operators of Tobler's Feed and Fuel.

Any calf born between December 1 and April 30 can be entered in the contest. All calves are to be raised on the dry calf feed, Purina calf startina. A representative of the firm will visit the dairyman when the calf is born to register its birth weight. Four months later, a final weight will be taken. The calf which has shown the greatest percentage of increase over birth weight will win.

Prizes are $10 for first, $5 each for second and third, and five gold-plated automatic pencils for fourth to eighth. "Of course, all the entries will be winners in a way", Hugh Tobler said, "because the milk saved will sell for more than twice as much as calf startina costs, yet the dairyman will have big and vigorous calves".

ENTERTAINS CLUB
Members of the Tuesday afternoon bridge club met this week with Mrs. Warren Farmer. Mrs. Robert Wilson won high score and Mrs. Ward Wieneke, low score.
