Investors Do!

The money we use to build new telephone facilities comes from people with money to invest in telephone stocks and bonds.

On the other hand, the dollars we receive for telephone service are used to pay wages, taxes, and other operating costs.

Whenever you see a new telephone building going up—or new cable being laid or new poles being set—you can be sure that it is made possible by the invested savings of many people.

It takes investment money and lots of it (About $150,000 this year) for the new telephone facilities we are adding to provide more and better service.
