Our Promise
To Give You More Service

Telephone line crews are really going places these days, extending lines to rural neighborhoods where telephone service is wanted. They're good sturdy lines because we want that telephone service you've been waiting for to be dependable.

In central offices, too, installers are putting in more equipment to take care of more telephones. Everyone is working fast—but taking time to do the job right! We're keeping our promise to get you more telephones and better service, just as fast as we can get the materials.
