Emmett Huskies Take S. R. Title

Coach Tony Ashenbrenner's Huskies wrapped up the 1948 S.R.V. football championship by downing the Weiser Wolverines 34-0 in an Armistice day clash. The Huskies were aided in their championship drive by virtue of Ontario and Vale playing a 0 to 0 tie at Ontario. In the other S.R.V. league game, Payette and Nyssa battled to a 7 to 7 tie to decide the cellar championship of the league.

Ontario closed the season in second place, Vale in third, Weiser in fourth, Nyssa in fifth and Payette in the cellar.

In a ding-dong battle with plenty of thrills, the Pirates drew first blood with a 32-yard sustained drive early in the second quarter, with Potter going over from the one-yard line. Meechan booted the extra point.

The Bulldogs received and gained two successive first downs to the Nyssa 34-yard line. Flanary passed to Wilder in the flat and the Nyssa speedster ran 66 yards to score. Itamura, Bulldog back, skirted end for the extra point. The big thrill of the game came on opening kickoff of second half. Payette kicked to Flanary on the 15-yard line and he reversed to Wilder, who ran 85 yards to score. A clipping penalty on the 30-yard line nullified the run. During remainder of the game the teams fought on even terms with the Pirates driving in the final minutes to the Nyssa 18-yard line. A pass interception by Nyssa ended the Pirate threat, and the ball game.

Teacher Speaks At PTA Meeting

Mrs. Harriet Brumbach, Nyssa high school teacher, who is prominent in educational circles in Oregon, told members of the Nyssa P. T. A. at a meeting held in the high school building last Thursday night that "The tendency in America seems to be laizze faire, which is a dangerous tendancy. If we wish to safeguard our America, we must be willing to attend to details of it."

"People's money sometimes comes first and their children second," Mrs. Brumbach said. "There is great need in our schools for character training; for vocational training. The burden is being placed on the schools and they are accepting the burden placed on them. Here lies the danger.

"Some ask if federal aid to education would give the government an opportunity to control our schools. It hasn't in the Smith-Hughes act and other acts, but the danger will not be through federal aid, but through our own inertia.

"I am happy to compare Malheur county schools, especially the Nyssa schools, with other schools. They rank well in the nation.

"Fathers are too busy providing for their modern families and mothers are too busy being church and civic leaders. The result is that the schools are more and more assuming the responsibilities of the parents. Religious training was formerly taught in the churches. Family ties are being weakened. We have all kinds of clubs, but we have very few family clubs.

"A small percentage of the student's time is spent in school. Sixty to 80 per cent of his time is spent out of school. The radio, the comics and the movies are great educational factors in his life",

Stating that students receive training in citizenship, health, mental higiene, culture and art in addition to the 3 R's, Mrs. Brumbach said "I wonder sometimes if we haven't forgotten the 3 R's. We are making things softer and softer for our youngsters and our parents".

Group Explains Government Aid To U. S. Schools

Other Subjects Discussed At Meeting Of Associated Chambers

Four students of the University of Oregon conducted a symposium on the subject of "Federal Aid to Education" at the bi-monthly meeting of the Associated Chambers of Commerce of Southwestern Idaho and Eastern Oregon in the Moore hotel in Ontario Monday night. The students gave the same program at an assembly in the Nyssa high school Tuesday.

Miss Jackie Barton, who acted as chairman, said the purpose of federal aid to education is to equalize opportunities by grants to elementary and secondary high schools. She reviewed the history of education in the United States and added that "If we have a successful citizenry we must have an enlightened citizenry. We believe in education for everyone to the extent of their ability".

Rosemary Beattie talked on existing facilities in the field of secondary and elementary education, Dale Peterson discussed four plans of federal aid and Jack Miller discussed the advantages and disadvantages of the plans.

In his summary, Miller said "If the government gives aid it can control the educational system. There are certain advantages when the government controls anything; everybody blames everyone else Another advantage is national certification of teachers. You can also equalize education on a national scale. Nationel control has been extended in the Smith-Hughes act and the G. I. Bill. It has not worked too badly.

"More dangerous than the red tape, is the fact that if we get a set-up that is very bad we have no basis of comparison on the state basis. It would equalize the tax base, but people would lose interest in their schools.

"After all the federal government has a 300 billion dollar debt and the states have a combined debt of only two and one-half billion".

At the associated chambers dinner, Erwin Schweibert, assistant to the president of the College of Idaho, spoke of the financial condition of the college and private institutions generally.

Mr. Schweibert pointed out that educators are interested in improved business conditions in the localities in which they operate and added that an educational institution makes the area in which it is located a better place in which

Tribute Is Paid To Workers Who Helped Hospital

Cornerstone Laying and Armistice Observance Are Held

Speakers participating in the dedication of the new Malheur Memorial hospital on Alberta avenue Armistice day emphized that the hospital, which is now under construction, was made possible by the effective work and spirit of co-operation of the residents of the hospital district during the financial campaign that was conducted during the fall of 1947.

On the day set aside for celebration of the armistice that ended the first world war, residents of the district combined the cornerstone-laying ceremonies with the Armistice day observance of the Nyssa war veterans, now composed of those who fought in both world wars.

Scheduled as the principal speaker, Arvel Child, president of the hospital association and bishop of the second ward of the L. D. S. church, declared that "This is an enjoyable occasion because it is connected with a great service project instituted and carried forward through love of our fellowmen and our community-mindedness. I dare say there is not one person here who gave solely with the idea that he would personally profit from this project to the full extent of his giving. We give because of the love we have for our children, our grandchildren and our neighbors and friends. This is a principle that has made America great, and such principles will continue to maintain it as such.

"In a project of this kind a great deal of time must be spent in planning, organizing, and supervising. We have in the community over a hundred men who have given of their means and hours and hours of their time for the advancement of this cause."

After revealing figures to show the great amount of time spent in the financial campaign, Bishop Child praised Dr. J. J. Sarazin, pioneer Nyssa physician, and the late Frank T. Morgan, first president of the hospital association, for their untiring efforts in behalf of the organization and the community.

"This is to be a memorial hospital, a memorial to the many who offered their very all, even to life itself, as a sacrifice that we might enjoy peace and liberty and the pursuit of happiness. They fought and some died for the very thing we here have exemplified service to and charity toward mankind, and through continued unity of purpose and the determination and driving power to carry on, we shall make our dreams a reality and our accomplishments a blessing to all within our reach.

God help us to ever be united in this great humanitarian cause. Instill within us the spirit of service to each other, and help us to carry to completion this noble and worthy project. May those whose lives were sacrificed in the past world conflicts rejoice in our
